QF resumes PER-SIN route

QANTAS will deploy Boeing 737 aircraft between Perth and Singapore when it recommences flights between the cities just over a year after suspending its previous A330 operation on the route (TD breaking news).

The 737 move was exclusively foreshadowed by TD two months ago (TD 11 Feb), but after our report the proposed schedule was swiftly removed from GDS.

WA Tourism Minister Kim Hames welcomed the announcement, saying the state government had been disappointed when QF had shelved the route last year.

"The decision recognises the importance of Perth as a major gateway in Australia, and caters to the growing corporate and leisure visitor markets," he said.

Qantas International head Gareth Evans disclosed the move in Perth this morning, with the carrier also unveiling a number of other Western Australia-focused initiatives.

Qantas has recently added two weekly return Brisbane-Perth flights bringing frequencies on this route up to 30 per week, and today the airline's fifth reconfigured A330 aircraft featuring the new Business Suite enters service, also on BNE-PER.

Qantas will also introduce Fokker F100 aircraft on some flights between Perth and Port Hedland, Karratha, Newman and Broome later this year.

"This change will enable Qantas to maintain the level of frequency while better matching capacity with changing market demand," the carrier said.

Two additional F100s have been purchased by QF offshoot Network Aviation to support the change, bringing its F100 fleet to a total of fourteen.

The new Perth-Singapore 737 flights will have a 12-seat Business Class cabin, with usual amenities including a Neil Perry dining experience and Qantas pyjamas.

TTF, Pilots back QF/MU jv

TOURISM & Transport Forum chief Margy Osmond has leant support for Qantas' mooted tie-up with China Eastern which is currently being evaluated by the competition watchdog.

Last month, the ACCC released a Draft Determination against the deal, saying it had concerns for the Australia-China venture, particularly its potential impact on competition on the Sydney-Shanghai route (TD 25 Mar).

Osmond said in her submission on Tue that it is the TTF's opinion that the draft determination "flies in the face of government moves to build improved trade relations and increase travel between China and Australia."

Ashford Castle debut

THE Travel Corporation will debut the latest addition to its Red Carnation Hotel Collection in Ireland's west later today.

Ashford Castle dates back to 1228 and features 68 guestrooms and 14 staterooms & suites.

The castle is located on the shore of Lough Corrib in County Galway - CLICK HERE for details.

"The determination goes against the spirit of the hard work put into developing closer ties with China," she remarked.

Osmond urged the Australian Competition & Consumer Comm to view the QF/MU alliance "in the prism of achieving Tourism 2020's inbound tourism targets" of increasing overnight visitor spend from the Asian market to $115-$140 billion by 2020.

She insisted that travel from China to Australia must become "quicker and easier" to hinder a slowdown in Chinese arrivals.

"One significant step toward increasing visitation from China would be improved access to the 2nd- and 3rd-tier Chinese cities that this partnership would have provided through China Eastern's domestic Chinese network along with more frequent services to key hubs like Shanghai."

The Australian & Int'l Pilots Association also pledged support for the alliance, saying the ACCC's current view was "somewhat unbalanced by considering a single route as distinct from the overall Australia-China market".

QF facing LHR fines

QANTAS could be hit with fines of as much as £20,000 per late landing at London Heathrow Airport, with the carrier's on-time performance among the worst of the 80 carriers which operated to LHR during Feb.

According to an internal memo the airport has given Qantas an "official warning" about missing its slot times, with the worst case scenario seeing it lose a valuable slot at the busy airport.

"We have been asked to advise Heathrow what our plans are to improve this performance," QF Sydney base operations manager Martin Gardiner wrote.

"All areas of the business including flight operations are now monitoring the performance of these services very closely so that we can improve our performance and retain our landing slots," he said.

Over the last year Qantas has worked hard to improve the utilisation of its aircraft, including retiming the Melbourne-Dubai-London A380 service with a much shorter turnaround in MEL which is understood to have put pressure on operations.

Mercure, Pullman to Maldives

ACCOR Asia Pacific is cranking up its presence in the Indian Ocean, revealing today it will enter the Maldives market having been appointed to manage two new resorts currently being built.

Pristine Island Investments has assigned Accor to take on management duties for the hotels under the mid-scale Mercure and up-scale Pullman brands.

The five-star "one-island, one-resort" Pullman Maldives will feature 120 villas (including 80 overwater pavilions) and is slated to open in 2018.

Earmarked to open next year, the Mercure Maldives Kooodoo Resort will be the only Maldivian beach resort directly accessible by domestic plane without the need for a speedboat transfer.

It comprises 68-villas, 43 of which are over water.

Both properties will be located in the Gaafu Alifu Atoll.

Accor Asia Pacific ceo Michael

Issenberg said the group was thrilled to expand into the Maldives at a time of "excellent growth, especially with travellers from Asia Pacific".

According to Maldives arrival data for Feb, travellers from Asia Pacific accounted for about 44% of visitor entries.

"The Mercure & Pullman resorts will provide great options for travellers looking for world-class accommodation in the middle of this unspoilt lagoon and we look forward to working with Pristine to bring these exciting projects to fruition," Issenberg commented.

Rhapsody exits SYD

ROYAL Caribbean's Rhapsody of the Seas will make its final port call in Sydney today following eight years based in local waters, carrying over 290,000 guests.

Rhapsody will depart tonight, bound for Singapore.

MH370 search widens

THE Malaysian and Australian Governments have confirmed they intend to double the search area for missing Flight MH370 if the Boeing 777 is not found by the end of May.

To date, 61% of the 60,000km<sup>2</sup> search area has been scoured off the Australian west coast.

"We are confident we are searching in the right area," Australian Transport Minister Warren Truss said last night.

Luxperience Awards

ORGANISERS of the annual Luxperience travel trade show have announced this year's event will include an Awards reception.

The Luxperience Gala Dinner & Awards Evening will take place on the penultimate evening of the exhibition, on 08 Sep at The Star.

Awards will be presented to buyers and sellers based on the themes of Inspiring, Meaningful & Connections - CLICK HERE for info.

Window Seat

TWO security screeners at Denver International Airport have been sacked by the Transportation Security Administration after they were found to be targeting "attractive male passengers" for pat-downs.

The move follows a tip-off which sparked an investigation in which an officer noticed signals between the pair when particular male passengers entered the screening area.

One of the sacked staff used a system to falsely categorise them as female which triggered a pat-down - and the investigator "watched as the male screener used that opportunity to pat down the passenger's groin and buttocks".

The TSA swiftly fired the pair, saying the alleged acts were "egregious and intolerable".

#Tassie365 project

TOURISM Tasmania and the Tasmanian Parks and Wildlife Service are using social media in a new campaign to promote the Apple Isle globally.

The innovative pilot program aims to encourage visitors to the state to share photos on their travels using the hashtag of #Tassie365.

To help kick-start the new promo, signage with a bracket for smartphones/cameras has been erected at Cradle Mountain to prompt visitors to take a photo of the unique landscape and post it on social media channels such as Twitter and Instagram.

Emirates fare sale

ECONOMY class fares priced from $1,362 are available with Emirates to Dublin as part of the carrier's latest Europe promotion.

On sale for travel between 27 Sep-25 Nov and 13 Jan-29 Feb, prices ex Perth, other fares incl $1,377 to Venice, $1383 to Amsterdam, $1,423 to Paris and $1,515 to London.

The offer ends 29 Apr.

MEANWHILE, Emirates today confirmed the launch of second daily A380 services to London Gatwick with immediate effect, as flagged by Travel Daily last week.

APT enters Mexico

A BRAND new 16 day itinerary through Mexico headlines APT's new South America program for 2016, out now.

The Mexico Discovery tour is scheduled to operate in Feb, Apr and Nov, exploring regions from Mexico City through to Riviera Maya, with stops in Oaxaca, San Cristobal de las Casas, Palenque, Campeche and Merida.

Priced at $11,495ppts & limited to just 28 travellers, the trip can be combined with a four day extension to Cuba and an 11-day journey through Peru to make the 30-day Treasures of Peru, Cuba and Mexico itinerary.

An exclusive charter of Yacht La Pinta has also been secured for voyages to the Galapagos Islands, with the 48-passenger expedition vessel featured on APT's 29 day Best of South America with Amazon and Galapagos Islands, priced at $24,495ppts.

The 2016 brochure also has 10- and 20-night Antarctica small ship cruises, along with tour itinerary extensions to Atacama in Chile, Colca Canyon & Patagonia and rail journeys on PeruRail's Vistadome and Andean Explorer.

'SuperDeals' with LATAM Airlines such as a 'Companion Fly Free' and 'Business class upgrades from $4,100' are in market now.

Nexus Hols to India

NEXUS Holidays will launch product in India within 3 months, adding to its stable of China, New Zealand, Japan, USA/Canada, Europe, Indochina and more.

EMIRATES and Club Med recently ran an incentive in WA where 10 travel agents who qualified were lucky enough to experience two for Club Med's premium ski resorts in Europe.

This group - the second of which in recent times (TD Tue) - stayed at Pragelato in Italy for four nights before travelling to Val Thorens, Club Med's latest ski resort.

Agents were also treated to the luxurious Emirates Business class between Paris and Dubai.

Ultimate wine showcase

AUSTRALIA'S Ultimate Winery Experiences hosted an event at the Sydney Sofitel Wentworth last night to introduce the industry to the initiative, which aims to showcase some of Australia's top wine tourism providers.

Formed in Apr 2013, Ultimate Winery Experiences Australia (UWEA) is an initiative backed by Tourism Australia, aiming to raise the country's profile as one of the world's leading wine tourism destinations.

UK Air Ombudsman

BRITAIN'S Civil Aviation Authority is set to hand over responsibility for handling disputes between passengers and airlines to "alternative dispute resolution" (ADR) schemes.

The CAA will administer the ADR schemes which will involve an "independent ombudsman-style" approach to resolving complaints.

Hong Kong lounge

MARCO Polo Hongkong Hotel has opened a new Canton Lounge which offers daily breakfast, afternoon tea and evening drinks for HK$300 per person.

The 14 members provide tourism and wine experiences which go beyond traditional cellar door tastings.

These can range from blending your own wine through to cooking breakfast in the middle of a vineyard, "meet the winemaker" lunches and dinners and even tasting the port from your birth year.

It's the latest group to be launched under Tourism Australia's "Best of Australia" banner which also includes Luxury Lodges of Australia, Great Golf Courses of Australia and Great Walks of Australia.

Last night's event saw Fiona Doyle from helloworld take home the ultimate lucky door prize - 12 bottles of wines from UWEA members.

Castaway mates rates

TRAVEL professionals are being invited to experience Castaway Island in Fiji at special industry rates throughout May.

The Castaway package is priced at FJD$550 (AU$347) per night for a four person bure and inclusive meal plan for two people.

For additional guests in the bure a surcharge of FJD$199 applies for adults and FJD$99 for children (who also eat for free) - all rates exclude Fiji Govt tax of 20%.

Bookings must be made by 10 May to avail the offer, which is open to frontline retail and wholesale travel consultants and airline staff.

To make a request, email reservations@castawayfiji.com.fj.

Discover Hawaii 2015

HAWAII Tourism Oceania has released its latest Discover Hawaii guide, available in hard copy or as an online e-brochure.

The 92-page guide provides expert advice on shopping, dining and entertainment tips on Oahu, Kauai, Maui, Hawaii Island, Lanai and Molokai - for a copy, see gohawaii.com/au/visitor-guide.

WA beyond resources

A FORUM to discuss future growth opportunities for tourism will be held in Perth today, hosted by The Australian Tourism Export Council and Tourism WA.

The one-day event features presentations from TripAdvisor, the AOT Group and PATA.

"All the indicators are pointing towards growth, including the strengthening of destination appeal via new infrastructure and facilities, an attractive foreign exchange rate, and less pressure on accommodation prices with a softening of the resources sector - all good signs for tourism in WA," ATEC md Peter Shelley said.

ATEC WA branch chairman Jeromy Cotterill said presentations during the forum would focus on drivers for industry growth following a downturn in the resources market.

"Perth hotel rates and availability are now more competitive, which makes Perth even more attractive to local and international visitors," Cotterill commented yesterday.

The forum is being held at the Pan Pacific Perth Hotel.

Cathay traffic increase

CATHAY Pacific and sister carrier Dragonair saw a combined 11% increase in passengers during Mar, with a total of 2.89 million.

The strong performance saw group passenger load factor surge five points to 87.3%, while capacity was up 5.7%.

CX gm revenue management Patricia Hwang said demand was strong in all cabins, with good loads to and from Southwest Pacific, Europe and the UK.

Regional travel was also strong particularly to Japan, Thailand and Singapore, she said.

VS to use Delta's res

VIRGIN Atlantic has confirmed that next year it will switch to using the AIR4 passenger services system for reservations, ticketing and departure control - the same software utilised by its alliance partner and major shareholder Delta Air Lines.

The VS system will be "fully distinct" from Delta's, but aligning the technologies will provide an improved customer experience.

The move will also enable the transatlantic joint venture partners "to share long-term IT investments and direction".

New Trafalgar brox

TRAFALGAR has released its first ever worldwide Autumn/Winter/Spring brochure, with the 2015/16 program including "unique and authentic seasonal experiences across Europe, Asia, USA and Canada".

The new brochure features 52 itineraries including three new Christmas Spectacular guided holidays which take guests behind the scenes of Europe's festivities.

There is also a new 15 day Canadian Rockies Winter Wonderland holiday, with md Matthew Cameron-Smith saying "Trafalgar continues to offer agents and their clients the real deal year-round".

He said agents can confidently sell the product which gives them year-round commissions and market-leading incentives.

Corporate Counsellors

TRAVEL Counsellors has seen a strong rise in its corporate bookings over the last few months, with a 36% year-on-year first quarter increase in sales.

GM Tracy Parkinson said the group had identified the corporate sector as representing "huge growth potential" for its members.

"Organisations are recognising the value in the level of the bespoke service and expertise we provide, compared to booking travel online," she said.

The growth follows the launch of the 'Travel Counsellors for Business' sub-brand and a new-look website earlier this year at tctravelmanagement.com.au.

The corporate division now accounts for half of the group's growth over the last four years.

DESTINATION Port Stephens partnered with Qantas and Destination NSW to host this lucky group of Singapore-based travel agents on a recent two-day familiarisation.

The trip included rides on camels, quad bikes and toboggans, as well as plenty of local seafood and craft beer.

EK slams 'pernicious falsehoods'

EMIRATES has asked the US Department of Transportation to make public any submissions received under a US process currently under way to examine allegations of airline subsidisation against EK, EY and QR made by a coalition of American carriers including AA, UA and DL.

An open forum has been established online at regulations.gov for stakeholders to provide comments and submit information about the subsidy allegations (TD Mon), which EK said are "demonstrably false".

Emirates has asked that this open forum immediately include the release of materials received by the US Departments of Transportation, Commerce and State, with such a move toward transparency and openness allowing Emirates to "defend itself against the pernicious falsehoods that have wrongly been advanced against it."

Vacay Club into Asia

THE first Wyndham Worldwide vacation club in Asia has been confirmed to open in Thailand.

Sea Pearl Villas Resort in Phuket will be the first property in the new Club Wyndham Asia offshoot when it rebrands as Wyndham Sea Pearl Resort - Phuket in Jun.

HRS properties added to Travelport

TRAVELPORT has announced a multi-year distribution agreement with hotel solutions provider HRS, expanding the Travelport accommodation portfolio by as much as 70,000 properties.

The majority of HRS' additions are independent hotels which will now be available through Travelport's Travel Commerce Platform.

Later in the year the HRS inventory will be fully integrated into the agent's normal workflow, and the deal also gives Travelport-connected agents access to the HRS Business Tariff program which offers special corporate rates for over 35,000 hotels.

Travelport vp of hospitality and digital media, Niklas Andreen said HRS is "an important distribution player in the travel industry, particularly in Germany," with the deal forming part of the GDS firm's ongoing strategy to extend its Beyond Air offering.
