Marcia-effect hits Qld tourism

THE Queensland Government has launched a new campaign aimed at encouraging residents to holiday in the Southern Great Barrier Reef region to support the local tourism industry.

The new pitch comes in the wake of Cyclone Marcia which passed through the Capricorn Coast last month.

Local tourism organisations are concerned that holidaymakers may believe the area has been scarred by the tropical cyclone & are thinking twice about visiting.

Savva regional focus

TRAVEL management & events firm Voyager has bolstered its management team as it prepares for growth in the Asia Pacific.

CEO Richard Savva will see his responsibilities grow through a new role as regional managing director, in which he will oversee Australia in addition to Singapore, Philippines, Hong Kong and China.

Four commercial divisions built from last year's acquisition of Griffin (TD 12 Nov) will be established, focusing on the firm's four key areas of expertise.

Capricorn Enterprise ceo Mary Carroll said the tourism sector and retail segment "is keen to get the message out that we are quickly getting back to business and ready to welcome visitors".

"Our key message is don't cancel your business or leisure bookings and with Easter coming up, continue your holidays as planned," Carroll urged.

Queensland Minister for Tourism Kate Jones said taking a holiday in the region is one of the best ways to help it recover.

The campaign is led by Tourism & Events Queensland, with TV, billboard and online activity under the tag of 'Southern Great Barrier Reef is Where Great Begins'.

Toms joins itravel

LONG time Helloworld staffer Rachele Toms has joined the itravel group as its new Head of Marketing and Product.

Her career has also included roles with Insight Vacations and APT, with itravel md Steve Labroski saying her experience "has already made her a key addition to the itravel family".
