QF 787s to Jo'burg

QANTAS will use Boeing 787-9 Dreamliner aircraft to replace 747s on the South Africa route, as well as to hubs in South and North America, ceo Alan Joyce reportedly said yesterday at the CAPA World Aviation Summit.

Joyce also said QF would discuss with alliance partner Emirates how it will best use two slots at London Heathrow it currently has on lease to British Airways.

The leased slots will revert back to QF at the end of 2017.

Last week, Joyce and Emirates boss Tim Clark met to discuss the alliance's future growth strategy to hubs in Europe (TD Tue).

Quest: living local

QUEST Apartment Hotels continues its travel trade push, today promoting the ability to call on staff's local expertise to explore and "live like a local" while staying with Quest (see today's cover page).

United back to Auckland

STAR Alliance member carrier United Airlines today revealed it would resume services between the US west coast & New Zealand from mid-next year (TD breaking news), trumping an expected move into the Kiwi market by Qantas' US partner American Airlines.

UA will launch a thrice weekly service to Auckland from San Francisco starting 01 Jul using Boeing 787-8 Dreamliner aircraft.

The route will be beefed up to daily frequencies from 28 Oct, upgauging to the larger 787-9 in time for the peak winter season, subject to regulatory approval.

Flights will depart AKL at 1320, enabling travellers to connect on flights from Australian hubs.

The service will operate under a cooperative arrangement with Star Alliance NZ member Air New Zealand, which itself operates the route on a daily basis.

United Airlines last operated flights to New Zealand in 2003.

In Jul, TD revealed paperwork filed in NZ indicated American Airlines "will" fly to New Zealand in due course (TD 13 Jul).

Laos air travel treaty

AN AIR services agreement with Laos and Australia, opening up the possibility for airlines to expand travel between the two countries will be considered by the Treaties Committee at a public hearing on Mon.

The treaty would provide an opportunity to increase tourism and export activity.

AHA seeks authorisation

THE Australian Hotels Association (AHA) has sought to extend its authorisation from the ACCC to collectively bargain with suppliers on behalf of members.

The AHA's current authorisation expires in mid 2016, and the association wishes to extend the authorisation for another ten years, adding a number of suppliers now and in the future.

In its application, the AHA said the move would give the AHA Divisions and its members more input and cost effectiveness in the competitive process between buyers and suppliers.

Under non-collective bargaining arrangements, AHA argues members are being presented with contracts weighted in favour of the target on a 'take it or leave it' basis under which is proving difficult to negotiate.

The AHA told the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission collective bargaining would help boost competition and will result in fairer terms and conditions for liquor retailers.

The application is open for submissions until 23 Oct, with a final determination due in Mar.

VA expand Sabre pact

VIRGIN Australia will enhance its recently-signed deal with Sabre Corporation (TD 17 Jul), agreeing to take on new content merchandising solutions and the Sabre Marketplace Analysis tool.

Under the revised deal, Virgin will be able to use data through Sabre systems to develop ways to increase revenue and yield on transactions made by passengers.

Airfares and ancillary products will also be able to be marketed and sold, with agents able to buy ancillaries on behalf of clients.

Kenya keen to step in

AMID tightening immigration requirements to South Africa, Kenya has sought to raise its flag higher in order to drive a greater share of the Australian market for wildlife and safari holidays.

In effect since 01 Jun, parents visiting South Africa with kids 18 years of age or under must carry original or certified birth certificates for each child, presented at check-in (TD 22 Sep).

The measures apply to travellers entering the country on any airline but not those transiting on to another country.

Kenya Tourism Board spokesperson Anne Morris told TD this week the country, "long regarded as the home of the safari" welcomes everyone, even families, with open arms.

"Accessibility is now easier than ever with an online visa system, meaning that all Australian visitors can obtain an e-visa prior to departure to gain entry to Kenya," Morris told Travel Daily.

SA mtn bike project

MOUNTAIN bike touring routes, scenic descending trails, bike parks & consolidation of existing trails will all be carried out by the SA Government as part of its play for a greater slice of bike tourism.

The government will spend $1.5 million on developing the Mount Lofty Ranges as a mountain biking and cycling destination by 2020.

Sustainability, Environment and Conservation Minister Ian Hunter said the bike tourism market was around 500,000 visitors per year.

TTC Treadright policy

THE Travel Corporation's sustainability arm The Treadright Foundation has adopted a new Animal Welfare Policy to ensure touring programs adhere to recognised animal welfare criteria.

Operations teams will now have greater clarity on tour activities involving animals under human control, with those not meeting the guidelines to be phased out.

CX HKG 7's packages

CATHAY Pacific has released a range of travel packages for fans of the HSBC Hong Kong Sevens rugby tournament, taking place in the city from 08-10 Apr 2016.

As the official Sevens airline, travel deals including return air from Australia and passes to the entire three-day tournament start at $1,569pp ex Adelaide, with prices available from other cities. Departures valid from 01-08 Apr.

DFAT Nepal update

PROTESTS in Nepal's southern provinces bordering India have resulted in a shortage of fuel and other essential supplies throughout Nepal, prompting DFAT to reissue its travel advice.

DFAT has advised those planning to travel to Nepal contact their tour provider to assess if they will be affected by the fuel shortage.

The overall level for Nepal remains at "exercise a high degree of caution".

Park Inn set for Suva

THE latest stage of growth for Carlson Rezidor Hotel Group in the Australasia market emerged this week, with the Singapore-based group announcing it will launch the Park Inn brand in 2018.

Carlson Rezidor has signed a management deal for the Park Inn by Radisson Fiji Suva, the group's second Fijian property, joining Radisson Blu Resort Fiji Denarau Island.

The new-build 130-key Park Inn by Radisson Suva will be located within close proximity to the main street of the Fijian capital, the city's wharf & bus terminal.

Catering to the MICE segment, the new hotel will also feature a ballroom and meeting rooms.

Expedia plots China

EXPEDIA Inc is eyeing entry into the China outbound market via the Expedia brand, the OTA's ceo Dara Khosrowshahi has stated.

This week, Khosrowshahi told Australian media the Chinese market was "hyper competitive", and for at least the next five years probably wasn't the best fit for western companies to tackle.

Earlier this year, Expedia Inc divested its stake in China-based travel firm eLong (TD 25 May), in order to focus on outbound China business through tie-ups with online agencies Ctrip and Qunar.

He said of China: "We don't think [China is] particularly attractive over the next 5 years."

"We want to go outbound first, then over a long period of time we'll see how we compete in China. It's tough for western companies to compete in China," Khosrowshahi added.

Expedia Inc also has a presence in China through Hotels.com.

United adds SFO/TLV

UNITED Airlines will commence a new San Francisco-Tel Aviv route from 01 Apr.

The route will be serviced using Boeing 787-9 Dreamliner jets on a thrice weekly basis.

10 years of Expedia.com.au celebrates in Sydney

SENIOR execs from Expedia Inc celebrated the 10th anniversary of the OTA's operation in Australia through the expedia.com.au channel in Sydney this week.

Chief executive officer Dara Khosrowshahi and chief financial officer Mark Okerstrom flew into the Harbour City from the US for a whirlwind visit to mark the occasion with the local office.

Khosrowshahi told media on Wed "Australia is a market that we are really interested in...it's a terrific market."

He said Expedia's business here is "growing nicely," revealing sales generated in one week now are equivalent to what the OTA made in its debut year back in 2005.

Speaking of the merger with the Wotif Group, the Seattle-based boss referred to the Aussie company as "kind of a perfect match" for Expedia Inc.

The businesses complement each other, with Expedia.com.au tending to create more outbound sales, while the majority of Wotif's sales are domestic product.

"They will focus, but not exclusively, on those two messages," Khosrowshahi said.

Technology integration of the Wotif brand with that of Expedia, aimed at improving efficiency, is seeing "good results out of Wotif and the lastminute[.com] brand".

"We hope to build from there," Khosrowshahi added.

Integration has also seen the Wotif website remove booking fees for hotels & for the majority of air carriers and LCCs.

"Our philosophy in general is we have to use the scale of the business & growth of the business and essentially make it easier and cheaper for consumers to book travel.

"Wotif was charging fees and we removed them. You can't be charging a bunch of fees and thrive," Khosrowshahi remarked.

Expedia Inc cfo Mark Okerstrom said the online travel firm has invested billions over the last five years to "essentially re-platform all our websites, to re-establish ourselves as the 'revolutionary' in the travel industry".

"At our heart, we are a technology company and that is what has driven us thus far and what will drive us further."

Wotif Group managing director Daniel Finch said the merger with Expedia has been "refreshing".

Finch said the new Wotif.com website continues to evolve since migrating to Expedia's platform in May, saying "we've enhanced performance. For the main part of the integration, the bulk of the work has been done."

"It feels like a fresh start."

A new advertising campaign for Wotif.com - the first major promo for the brand in three years - goes live next week (TD yesterday) featuring the new tag line of 'Home of Holiday'.

Finch said it takes advantage of Wotif's "incredible stat" that one in two Australians have booked a holiday with the company.

LAST night saw the official opening of the 17th annual Sydney Night Noodle Markets in Hyde Park, with Macau as the exclusive international tourism body sponsor for the event.

Macau Govt Tourist Office (Australia) gm Helen Wong said visitors to the pavilion can take a seat, dine on noodles and learn about Macau's many highlights of the "genuine global centre for tourism and leisure".

Held from 09-25 Oct, the 2015 outdoor event has attracted over 450 food operators, bars and activation spaces to cater for large crowds.

Now a major event on the city's calendar, the Sydney Night Noodle Markets is expected to break last year's attendance record of 550,000.

To celebrate their inaugural involvement in the event, MGTO in Australia has partnered with Cathay Pacific and Macau Tower's AJ Hackett to offer a prize via a "selfie" social media competition.

The comp encourages visitors to snap photos of themselves in front of the specially-erected Ruins of St. Paul's recreation.

The winning entrant will score a trip for themselves and three friends to Macau for the 2015 Macau Grand Prix, to be held from 19-22 Nov.
