SureSave transforms PDS

TRAVEL insurer SureSave has this morning formally launched a new Product Disclosure Statement, which the NIB-owned business claims is "set to revolutionise the industry".

The new PDS describes policy cover in terms of 'events' that can happen to travellers before or during their trip, "breaking down otherwise complicated policies into a simple and easy guide to travel insurance, using clear visuals," said SureSave national sales director, Talbot Henry.

"For added convenience SureSave's PDS has more new features such as a redefined medical cover, where customers with existing medical conditions can apply for and receive cover."

The new SureSave policy allows customers to start with essentials and add on optional extras, with Comprehensive and Basic plans available for international pax, along with plans for domestic and annual frequent travellers.

All policies provide 24 hour emergency assistance and a travel safety app, and the insurance is now available to Australian permanent residents, NZ passport holders and 457 visa holders.

Henry invited agents to engage with SureSave and see for themselves how different the new policy is.

"Our research shows that travellers trust the advice of agents more than ever before, so the role of the agent is crucial when selecting the right policy".

Crown 'solid performance'

CROWN Resorts this morning revealed its profit results for 2015/16, with the reported net profit after tax down 11.8% to $393.6m before taking into account extraordinary items.

While the majority of the company's revenue relates to gaming, hospitality was also a key contributor, with the three Crown Melbourne hotels combined reporting $452.7 million in non-casino revenue.

Occupancy at the flagship Crown Towers Melbourne property was a healthy 97.1%, while Crown Metropole achieved a 92.4% occupancy and Crown Promenade's occupancy was 93.6%, reflecting the "very strong demand for luxury hotel accommodation in Melbourne".

Crown is currently planning a new 'six-star' hotel in Melbourne in partnership with the Schiavello Group (TD 12 Dec 14), which is subject to a planning application.

The firm's Perth hotels were also full over 90% of the time.

Legal action continues to overshadow the Crown Sydney project, which has been approved but has had the decision of the NSW Planning Assessment Commission challenged.

Crown said it would "defend these proceedings vigorously".

Indo airline US flt nod

THE US Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) has given the green light for Indonesian carriers to resume flights to its shores following a 10-year hiatus.

This week, the FAA announced that as Indonesia complies with International Civil Aviation Organisation safety standards, it has been granted a Category 1 rating, paving the way for the likes of Garuda Indonesia to begin planning services to the United States from early next year.

Cat 1 rated carriers are also able to participate in codesharing arrangements with US partners.

Cook quits the Cooks

LONG-TIME local head of Cook Islands Tourism, Kerryn Cook has resigned from the organisation after five years.

Cook is also stepping down from her role as president of the Treasures of the South Pacific Association.

Etihad to Venice

ETIHAD Airways is introducing a new daily service from Abu Dhabi to Venice using dual-class Airbus A319 aircraft, starting 30 Oct.

EY equity partner Alitalia will withdraw from the route, but will codeshare on the Etihad flights.

Big Webjet reaction

TRAVEL agents from across Australia have reacted furiously to yesterday's Travel Daily exclusive story about AFTA's referral of Webjet to the ACCC over misleading advertising.

A post on the TD Facebook page has attracted scores of comments, shares and views, with many expressing thanks to AFTA for raising the issue.

Webjet declined an opportunity to comment on the issue.

'Rockstar Convention' rocks out

HERALDED as the inaugural 'Tourism Marketing Rockstar Convention', members from across multiple sectors of the travel industry have converged at the Royal Automobile Club of Australia in Sydney today for an immersive full day event put together by the team at MyTravelResearch.com.

Over the course of the day, attendees will be taken on a step-by-step journey through aspects of evidence-based marketing planning, harnessing the latest trends and insights into tourism marketing.

Taking the stage this morning to kick start the convention, Carolyn Childs co-founder and ceo of MyTravelResearch.com said: "quite often marketers are keen to get involved in the new stuff, but they forget the fundamentals. This conference is about striking the right balance".

The convention pays specific attention to how to build a strong brand, managing brand reputation (particularly in the online environment) and developing personas of customers, a type of identity, which helps marketers tailor their offering with greater relevance.

It will also be progressively rolled out on Delta's Boeing 777 fleet.

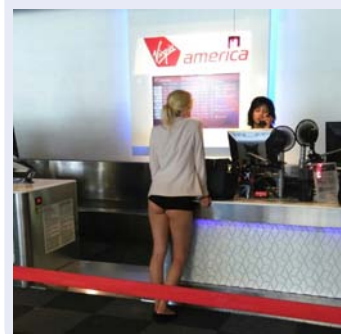

Window Seat

MAYBE it was pants-off Friday or maybe she just didn't feel like wearing dacks.

A photo has been posted on Reddit of a lady at a Virgin America check-in desk with nothing but a pair of underpants on her lower half.

Posted with the caption "meanwhile at the airport", the photo shows the woman, dressed in a blazer standing at the desk, as a Virgin staff member makes a call.

Hotel data breach

PAYMENT card data from tens of thousands of food, drink and other transactions may have been implicated in a data breach which effected 20 US hotels operated by HEI Hotels & Resorts for Starwood, Marriott, Hyatt and Intercontinental.

HEI spokesman Chris Daly said the malware was discovered in early to mid Jun on payment systems used at restaurants, bars, spas, lobby shops and other facilities at the properties.

He said it was difficult to ascertain exactly how many customers were affected because they may have used their cards multiple times.

Outside experts investigated the breach and found that customer names, account numbers, payment card expiration dates and verification codes may have been stolen by the hackers, reported Reuters.

It follows similar data breaches at Hyatt Hotels and Starwood in recent months.
