Iberia back to Tokyo

SPANISH flag carrier Iberia will resume service to Japan later this year, with thrice weekly Madrid-Tokyo Narita flights from 30 Oct.

The return to the Japan market comes after an 18 year hiatus, with the oneworld member last operating there in 1998.

Expedia merges hotel brands

ONLINE travel giant Expedia has confirmed the closure of the HotelClub website, which will become part of Hotels.com effective from 15 Feb 2016.

The consolidation of the online accommodation websites follows last year's acquisition by Expedia of rival Orbitz (TD 18 Sep), with HotelClub being part of the Orbitz portfolio.

The merger with Hotels.com is the end of an era for HotelClub, which started life in Sydney as Flairview Travel and became part of Travelport, Travelocity and then eventually Orbitz.

HotelClub is still operated by Australian registered HotelClub Pty Ltd, which is an Orbitz Worldwide subsidiary.

Members of the HotelClub Member Rewards loyalty program have been advised of the change this week, and will be able to swap any unused points for "equivalent credit" on Hotels.com after the changeover.

Hoteliere "should continue to update rates, promotions and inventory on both Expedia and Orbitz systems as they do today," the company said, with measures being put in place to handle legacy HotelClub reservations after 15 Feb.

HotelClub is highlighting the benefits of the switch, including Hotels.com's rewards scheme (stay 10 nights and get one night free) as well as "Secret Prices" with thousands of hotels.

Interestingly, the shutting down of the HotelClub website does not impact HotelClub for Agents, a B2B solution offering net rates at more than 75,000 properties.

EK updates amenities

EMIRATES has refreshed its First and Business class amenity kits, with the bags designed in "close collaboration with luxury Italian brand Bvlgari".

Now available on all flights, the offering includes the Emirates Private Collection by Bvlgari, which will offer eight designs for men and women.

Another 8 unique offerings for both men and women will make up the Emirates Indulgence by Bvlgari, with the carrier saying the set of 16 designer bags will be refreshed every nine months.

The kits contain Bvlgari products exclusive to Emirates, including new fragrances which will be introduced with each set.

The variations will be available on different sectors, giving passengers travelling on connecting flights a chance to collect different variants.

EK said it also plans to launch a new collection of amenity kits for Economy class in the coming months.

Travel Exhibition TIME pact

THE Travel Industry Exhibition this morning confirmed a new partnership with the Travel Industry Mentor Experience, with TIME to take part in both of the 2016 shows during July.

2016 will be the third year for the Travel Industry Exhibition, which is expanding into Victoria for the first time.

The 2016 shows will take place at Peninsula Docklands in Melbourne 11-12 Jul, and then at Sydney's Luna Park a week later from 18-19 Jul - with the National Travel Industry Awards gala dinner taking place in Sydney on the intervening weekend.

TIME will hold its regular graduation ceremonies at the conclusion of the first day of each show, with exhibition-goers invited to attend.

Penny Spencer, TIME chair, said the opportunity provided by the Travel Industry Exhibition to showcase mentees who have grown in their careers after graduating from the program is very exciting.

"We are thrilled to be working together on this prestigious event," she said.

Event director David McCarthy said the alignment with TIME was a significant contribution to the show's program.

"Last year's exhibition taught us that travel professionals thrive on education and networking.

"There's a lot of valuable IP to be passed down to future managers and the TIME mentor program facilitates this cause".

Attendance at the Travel Industry Exhibition is free for the travel trade, with registration now available online at www.travelindustryexpo.com.au.

Exhibitor space at both the Sydney and Melbourne shows is also now on offer, CLICK HERE.

Fraser's Swiss entry

FRASERS Hospitality has taken its European property tally to 55 with the addition of the five-star 67-unit Fraser Suites Geneva in Switzerland.

Located in the heart of Geneva's city centre, the new addition marks the Singapore-based firm's entry into Switzerland.

CEO Choe Peng Sum said having a presence in Geneva "is of particular significance to our global growth strategy as it anchors our footprint in Europe."

EY to fly to Rabat

Ethiad Airways has launched flights between Abu Dhabi to Morocco's capital, Rabat.

AI shelve 777 F-class

A DROP in First class cabin occupancy will see Air India do away with the pointy-end product on its fleet of long-range Boeing 777-200LR aircraft.

Air India currently features eight first class seats on the 777 which operate on the Delhi-San Francisco route.

The move will see AI bolster its Economy cabin on the jet from the current 198 seat to a massive 298, dual class configuration.

Sharing policy progress

THE NSW Government is a step closer to regulating the likes of Airbnb after releasing five principles that will underpin policy on the sharing economy.

The five guiding principals, designed to safeguard consumers and businesses are: supporting a culture of innovation; fit for purpose regulation in the digital age; customer protection and safety; promoting competition; & agile government procurement.

Last year, the peer-to-peer sector contributed $504 million to NSW's economy.

NSW Minister for Innovation and Better Regulation Victor Dominello released the paper, saying the economic benefits of the collaborative economy will continue to grow "as more consumers choose to link or share directly with providers via online and mobile platforms."

"The collaborative economy is here to stay," Dominello said.

Airbnb Australia country manager, Sam McDonagh said the home-sharing website is proud of the economic benefits it provides "to families, communities and local businesses that otherwise wouldn't benefit from the tourist dollar."

"We look forward to working with the Minister and the NSW Government to help grow and diversify tourism in NSW and continue to provide visitors to the State with unique travel experiences," McDonagh said.

Crooked new tour

CROOKED Compass has released a new 14-day small group tour in the Alborz Mountains in Iran.

The 'Valley of the Assassins' tour was launched in response to the lifting of decade-long sanctions on Sun.

Window Seat

SUBWAY commutes can get pretty bland. Why not switch it up a little? How about stripping off your pants?

That's the premise of the annual No Pants Subway Ride started in New York in 2002 by Improv Everywhere.

The unusual event is now staged in about 50 countries.

When the day was celebrated around the world last week it didn't receive such a warm welcome in Russia with authorities seeking to punish the pantless riders for "disturbing public order".

"I can't speak to the local laws of Moscow, but as often as Putin goes shirtless, you would think that showing your bare legs in public would be OK," said Charlie Todd, the founder of Improv Everywhere.

Quest West Perth ready to roll

PERTH'S hotel supply has been increased following the opening this week of the 72-room Quest West Perth - the first of four new Quest properties opening in Western Australia this year.

Quest West Perth is Quest Apartment Hotels' second location in the area, joining the well established Quest on Rheola.

Further projects will open in WA this year on Mounts Bay Road,

East Perth and Fremantle, adding a 323 more rooms in the state.

"With a number of significant infrastructure projects currently underway and those already existing in the Perth CBD and surrounding areas including Elizabeth Quay, we foresee strong continued demand for Quest's style of accommodation," Quest Apartment Hotels ceo Zed Sanjana remarked yesterday.

Yorke walking trail

THE 500km Walk the Yorke trail has opened, the South Australian Tourism Commission advises.

The track traces the entire coast of South Australia's Yorke Peninsula, showcasing the regions rugged cliffs, secluded coves, reefs, pristine beaches, sand dunes, historic lighthouses, as well as some of Australia's most productive farming land.

Walk the Yorke is 2hrs drive from Adelaide and links a number of towns and communities.

It's being pitched towards the walking & touring cyclist market.

MF free wi-fi in Econ

XIAMEN Airlines is reportedly offering Economy class travellers free in-flight wi-fi aboard its Boeing 787 Dreamliner fleet.

The move follows a trial period of complimentary connectivity to Business class passengers on MF's new routes from Fuzhou and Xiamen to Sydney.

Currently, four of Xiamen Airlines' six 787s provide wi-fi.

QIC improvements

ENHANCEMENTS have been made to the Qantas Industry Centre (QIC) phone system aimed at providing an improved user experience by travel partners.

Changes mean it's now quicker and more convenient for agents to contact a Qantas consultant, with callers no longer required to select a service option after entering an IATA/TIDS number.

Call processes for Platinum agents remain unchanged.

THAI is tops for tennis

THAI Airways International hosted key industry partners last week at Melbourne's Kooyong tennis tournament, one of the lead-up events for the Australian Open.

Travel Daily happened to be there too, and spotted Ram Chhabra and Nidhi Menroy from CVFR Travel Group, who are pictured with TG commercial manager Australia Marie Bubniw.

Aussie long weekend

WITH Australia Day falling on a Tue this year, the Tourism and Transport Forum Australia (TTF) is encouraging Aussies to take an annual leave day on the Mon to allow for a four-day long weekend.

Referring to the results of its Summer Consumer Survey, TTF ceo Margy Osmond says "there is nothing more Australian than taking a summer holiday and yet many of us have been hoarding our time off work to the point where we now have 123.5 million days in accrued annual leave".

"There is still time to take a much needed break to recharge the batteries before 2016 really kicks in," she continued.

The study revealed besides public holidays, 50% of Australians don't intend to take a break over the summer months.

CHINA Eastern Airlines' made its inaugural flight to Brisbane Airport over the weekend, heralding the first of its two month season of direct flights between Shanghai and the QLD capital.

"We warmly welcome China Eastern Airlines to Brisbane and look forward to building a strong alliance that will continue to grow in the future," commented Brisbane Airport Corporation ceo Julianne Alroe.

The summer stint expects to draw some 5,000 Chinese Tourists to southern Queensland over the next two months, with year-around flights planned to commence later in 2016.

Aussies top Fiji visits

TOURISM Fiji's ambitious target of attracting 714,000 visitors to the small island nation in 2015 has been topped, recording a whopping 754,835 arrivals - an overwhelming increase of 9% compared to the 2014 record.

Group executive chairman Truman Bradley was elated at the new figures, saying "Tourism Fiji will continue to strategically market and brand destination Fiji by working with industry partners to maintain this positive trend".

Australians made up the majority of Fijian arrivals, with 367,273 visitors, totalling 48.7% in overall arrivals.

New On The Go Tours

ON The Go Tours has expanded on its offerings, introducing seven new itineraries and 12 new destinations to its portfolio spanning Eastern Europe.

The first of its tours has been scheduled for Apr, with travellers having the choice of exploring Serbia, Macedonia, Albania, Montenegro, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Czech Republic, Slovakia, Romania, Hungary and Austria.

Its 100% Pure New Zealand Facebook page reached 2 million followers while its Instagram presence peaked at 245,000 - placing the organisation in the top 10 NZ pages alongside rugby world cup champions, the All Blacks.

Tourism businesses are also being encouraged to link in with TNZ's social media by using the hashtag #NZMustDo on their own Instagram posts to help other users to discover their content.

Raffles Grp rebrand

THE Raffles Group of Hotels & Resorts in Fiji has undergone a re-branding and will now be known as Raffe Hotels & Resorts.

The move follows AccorHotels' recent acquisition of the Raffles brand as part of the Fairmont Hotels portfolio (TD 10 Dec 15), with speculation that AccorHotels wants to ensure it has full ownership of the Raffles brand worldwide.

The hotel group has traded in Fiji for more than 40 years.

Money

WELCOME to Money, TD's Tue feature on what the Australian dollar is doing.

$1AUD = US0.696

The Aussie dollar had a positive movement overnight as it recovered from four-month lows, pushed up by an improvement in commodity prices and in the US equity market.

In other markets, the AUD made gains against regional currencies. The Aussie dollar jumped 1% against the New Zealand dollar and Chinese yuan, and 0.8% on the Japanese yuan.

It also made a 0.6% gain against the Euro and 0.4% on the British pound.

THIS year's Sydney Festival marks China Southern Airlines' fifth year anniversary sponsoring the iconic event, which provides the airline with the perfect opportunity to "further build ties between the two sister cities, Guangzhou and Sydney".

China Southern applauded the success of the event, highlighting the annual Symphony in the Domain concert as a particular high point of the festival.

The Symphony took the audience on a musical journey over the weekend, performing everything from Mendelssohn to Dvorak and Tchaikovsky, featuring a special appearance by the Sydney Philharmonia Choir.

The Sydney Festival will continue through to 26 Jan. Pictured above at the Symphony (from left to right front then back) is China Southern manager of corporate affairs and comms, Bill Bryant; China Southern deputy general manager ANZ Min Zeng; wife of the Governor Linda Hurley; China Southern regional sales manager Nancy Lan Huang; (back) The Honourable David Hurley, Governor of New South Wales; and Sydney Festival's Chris Toher.

AFTA update

From AFTA's chief executive, Jayson Westbury

HAVING just returned from a long Christmas break this year, my first long break in a very long time - I get a new invigorated feeling that 2016 is set to be a cracker for both Australia and the travel industry.

As the economists and forecasters all rally around deciding if we are to have a good year or not, I think the best thing to do is just get on with it.

It is a federal election year and no doubt that discussion will kick off very soon as the politicians all start to return and there is plenty of other topics to be addressed in the first quarter of this year.

The most important and immediate being the outcome of the credit card surcharging legislation that is bound to be one of the first orders of business for the year. AFTA will be working vigorously to ensure that we get a reasonable outcome for the travel industry and it looks like we are set for a fight on this one.

Last week we also released the ATAS review reports and it is very pleasing to get the amount of positive messages that we have from members and the broader travel industry on the way ATAS has embedded itself within the travel industry and the support that members feel ATAS is providing them as they talk to consumers. While the governance documents will be given a tidy up and a refresh with several changes to be made at the February AFTA board meeting, I am sure that in the main, the review has provided a sound set of recommendations to continue to allow AFTA and ATAS to improve the scheme.

For those retail bricks and mortar agencies that continue to do such a fantastic job for consumers, don't forget to look into the "ATAS People Choice Award" which is running as a part of the NTIA program for the first time this year. It is a great initiative and you can assess all the details at: afta.com.au/events/ntia/peoples-choice-award.

On a final note, I have had an overwhelming number of angry agents email me about the latest TVC by a non AFTA, non ATAS online travel agent. It is disappointing that the advertisement has used the language that it has and from what I understand a great number of consumers have already hit social media to express their support for travel agents.

I don't think sledging each other is a very grown up way to market and we will be looking at this more closely over the coming weeks.

So all the best for the year ahead, and let's hope it is a cracker of a year for everyone.
