Virgin to raise $1.01 billion

VIRGIN Australia this morning revealed that its restructuring program (TD 15 Jun) will hit the company's balance sheet by as much as $450 million.

The 'Better Business' initiative will see the removal of all E190 and Tigerair branded A320 aircraft over the next three years, replacing the A320s with B737s.

The changes will also involve a reduction in ATR aircraft, fleet utilisation improvements and network optimisations as well as "right sizing the organisation".

The details were revealed in a presentation which formally launched the carrier's previously announced Entitlement Offer under which $852 million will be raised from existing shareholders who will pay 21c per share on a one for one basis.

This money, along with the recent placement of new shares to Chinese group HNA (TD 10 Jun) will raise total gross proceeds of $1.011 billion which will be "used to strengthen the group's balance sheet" as well as repay debts.

Virgin will also undertake an additional top-up placement to HNA at a price of 26c per share, to boost the company's stake in Virgin Australia to 19.99%.

The presentation says VAH is on track to meet its 2016/17 targets, with an underlying profit before tax of $30-$60 million excluding restructuring costs of up to $450m.

MEANWHILE, VA chief John Borghetti today also boosted his shareholding in the company by about 450,000 shares, after the vesting of options issued in 2013.

The move means he now holds over 8 million VAH shares plus 2.8 million option rights.

The company's shares are trading at 20.5c today.

NSW govt restuctures RTOs

THE NSW government has today revealed the outcome of its review of the state's regional tourism organisations (RTOs) (TD 12 May), with Tourism Minister Stuart Ayres committing $43 million in funding over four years to the new arrangements.

Six new Destination Networks will be created to cover regional tourism promotion and marketing, including Destination Riverina Murray; Destination Southern NSW (including South Coast and Snowy Mountains); Destination North Coast (including Lord Howe Island); Destination Country & Outback; Destination Sydney Surrounds North (including Blue Mountains, Central Coast, the Hunter and Upper Hunter regions); and Destination Sydney Surrounds South (including the Southern Highlands and Illawarra).

Ayres said the new networks will work closely with local government, tourism organisations and operators.

There's also a new Destination NSW regional division, with Ayres saying the move will "improve industry engagement and better development of visitor experiences and products."

"Destination NSW is the state's expert body in tourism campaigns, marketing and programs and their assistance in building the new regional networks will make a positive difference," Ayres enthused.

Other initiatives include a new regional conferencing unit for Destination NSW (see tomorrow's Business Events News for more details), and a $4m funding boost for regional flagship events.

The new networks, which will see many existing RTOs dismantled, were created in consultation with 93 "key industry associations and stakeholders," Ayres said.

Velocity/BP fuel deal

IN AN Australian-first initiative, Velocity Frequent Flyer and BP customers will be able to pay for fuel with Velocity Points.

From next week those with points to use will be able to claim between $10 and $60 off fuel and in-store purchases at BP.

Velocity Frequent Flyer ceo Karl Schuster said the new deal was "a game changer for Australians".

"We know some members drive much more than they fly, so this gives them an alternative way to use their points that will ease the pressure on their wallet," Schuster said.

It is the first time an Australian airline loyalty program has allowed members to use points as currency in a retail store, the partners said.

To get started, Velocity members need to create a four digit pin code HERE.

Their Velocity membership card can then be swiped before making payment at BP stations.

Window Seat

ONE woman's hasty decision to get a divorce led to a Russian passenger plane being delayed for seven hours this week.

The 40-year-old lady stormed off the plane just before take-off after announcing she needed to urgently divorce her husband.

Her dramatic exit meant the other 520 passengers on board the Rossiya Airline plane had to disembark to go through a second security check.

According to witnesses, the woman kept repeating: "I am not in the mood to fly now".

Her non-flying mood lead to the ire of fellow passengers who took to social media to vent their anger about their flight from Moscow to Vladivostok being set back half a day - some even suggested she should be fined for her actions.
