Sofitel's first Aussie resort

ACCORHOTELS is spreading the wings of luxury brand, Sofitel following the management takeover of the iconic Sheraton Noosa Resort & Spa, located in the heart of Hastings Street, Noosa on the Sunshine Coast.

Effective immediately, the 176-suite property has rebranded as Sofitel Noosa Pacific Resort and joined AccorHotels' loyalty scheme, Le Club AccorHotels.

Swiss Peak coupons

RAIL Europe GSAs will be able to issue tickets locally for three new Swiss Peaks from tomorrow, enabling agents to assist clients with the booking process.

Passes on the mountain railway to the peak of Schynige Platte will be included in the Swiss Travel Pass, in addition to coupons to Grindelwald First and Harder Kulm in Interlaken.

Rail Europe manager Australasia Ingrid Kocijan said the changes alleviate any hassles customers could encounter purchasing passes in Switzerland, while avoid any time spent queueing, especially during peak season. It's the first Sofitel resort in Australia, complementing the brands' luxury portfolio of hotels in Sydney, Melbourne, Gold Coast and Brisbane, along with future locations at Darling Harbour in Sydney and Adelaide (opening in 2017 an 2018 respectively).

"The resort has been a fixture of Noosa's tourism scene for many years and the combination of its prime location and new Sofitel branding will see it attract even greater numbers from both a leisure and conference business perspective," AccorHotels Pacific chief operating officer Simon McGrath said yesterday.

"We are confident the resort will benefit from the strong presence of the Sofitel brand in many of Australia's feeder destinations, including Auckland, Bangkok, Beijing, Macau, Mumbai, Singapore, Shanghai, London and Paris," McGrath said. All existing bookings will be honoured and Starwood Preferred Guest loyalty members will receive their equivalent tier rewards benefits when checkingin to Sofitel Noosa Pacific Resort.

TTF recommendations include fast tracking new cruise facilities in Brisbane; advancing construction of the Cross River Rail project; improving rail access to the Gold Coast, and developing a framework for flexible ridesharing.

Osmond remarked that the measures they have included will "enhance the visitor experience in Queensland".

"In the past year, we've seen Queensland slip from 2nd to 3rd place behind Victoria and NSW in the number of international visitors coming to each state.

AFTA update

From AFTA's chief executive, Jayson Westbury

ON A long weekend in many parts of Australia at a time when our nation recognises those who have given back to the community and the nation and awarded for their service in the Queen's Birthday Honour List, we are all confronted by the tragic and horrible images from the shooting in Orlando, Florida.

Reports saying that this event in Orlando is the worst terrorist attack on the USA since 9/11 with some 50 people dead and questions, shock and sadness filling the USA and indeed the entire world as the story of this event comes to life.

It is inconceivable that any person could carry an assault rifle, the likes used in this shooting into a night club environment. Given that the terrorist had been or was employed by a very large security firm, you have to wonder how the authorities are able to keep track and control people who are extremists.

The entire story that is unfolding is almost to shocking to believe it can be true, but sadly it is. Orlando is one of the great cities in America and such a visited and important tourist city as it plays host to so many theme parks and other attractions which Australians and indeed people from around the world flock to see.

This will no doubt place some consideration on people's minds in relation to planned travel as regretfully these types of events do make people stop and think about their plans.

But I hope that the travelling public will remain stoic and resilient and continue to travel if for no other reason than to demonstrate the simple fact that as a people, we will not let acts of terror destroy our way of life.

This event will no doubt dominate the airwaves for several weeks as more and more detail is revealed and uncovered. It is a great time of sorrow for a national that Australia has such wonderful ties with and such a long history of support with.

I will be in Washington DC in a week or so and I am sure that security will have been increased and it will be an inconvenience, but when these things happened it is a very quick reminder why the authorities must remain diligent and we must all travel with our eyes wide open.

A sad day has passed this last weekend and I am sure the Australian people and indeed Australian travel industry will go on to support all Americans and their nation in whatever way we can.
