CATO continues to grow

THE Council of Australian Tour Operators is expanding, with chairman Dennis Bunnik telling TD a number of new members are in the process of joining as the CATO strategy develops.

A key initiative has been the imminent launch of a new CATO website which aims to provide a quick reference for travel agents wanting to source particular product from CATO members.

The site will highlight the "massive array of specialised and niche products that CATO members offer...it will be a fantastic tool," Bunnik said,

"solving the 'do you know who sells...?' problem that travel consultants face on a daily basis".

Other activity under way at CATO includes a member seminar next month on insurance and foreign exchange, as well as work on provision of legal and PR services for smaller members on a user-pays basis.

The Council is also looking at initiatives to further boost the profile of the group touring sector, Bunnik confirmed.

50 Degrees growth

NORDIC specialist operator 50 Degrees North has announced significant expansion, with the opening of a new representative office in Vancouver, Canada.

The company, which is preferred with Virtuoso, has also hired additional destination specialists in both its Australian and Norway offices, meaning clients can avail themselves of 24 hour assistance when on tour in the region, according to ceo Tietse Stelma.

EK plot Aus A380 upgauge

EMIRATES aspires to increase capacity on routes to Australia by converting all its services to the Airbus A380, the Gulf carrier's president Tim Clark has revealed.

Holiday intentions

THE USA has surged over the past 10 years to be the second most popular destination Aussies are planning an overseas holiday to, Roy Morgan data shows.

For the year ending Jun 2016, the number of Australians (over the age of 14) intending to head abroad rose to 10.6% of the population, up from 6.0% a decade earlier.

New Zealand remains the top destination at 18%, but down from 19.5% 10 years ago.

Holiday intention for the USA jumped from 14.6% to now be 17.8%, Japan was up from 6.1% to 9.1%, while Indonesia saw a doubling in interest, up to 8.5%.

England's popularity slumped by more than seven percentage points, sliding from 20.2% for 2006 FY, to 13.6% to 2016 FY, while interest in Thailand, France and Italy also experienced dips.

Clark, in Sydney this week, said the move would help Emirates and alliance partner Qantas fend off competition from rival airlines, The Australian reported today.

"We are growing capacity simply by upgauging to the A380 and we will continue to gradually bring more and more of those in."

"I really want to consolidate the whole product onto 380s eventually," Clark commented.

EK currently operates 77 flights per week to Sydney, Melbourne, Brisbane, Perth and Adelaide from its Dubai headquarters.

By the end of Oct, 49 of the existing services will be flown by the superjumbo.

Clark also flagged ambitions to extend its reach further into Australia to secondary airports such as Darwin or Cairns, but said a "flatlined" European economy and slowing of the Asian economy needs to be waited out.

"At the moment it is about upgauging. There are other points that could be of interest to us later on with perhaps a twin (engine aircraft), but we are not there yet."

Travel tax senate inquiry

THE Federal opposition has held out on taking a stance on the proposed backpacker tax legislation and called for a short Senate inquiry to "inform Labor's final position".

The proposal would see a new 19% tax for backpacker introduced and the Passenger Movement Charge for all pax departing Australia increased to $60 from 01 Jul (TD 27 Sep).

Shadow Minister for Tourism, Anthony Albanese this week accused the Coalition of wanting "to rush its legislative Backpacker Tax 'fix' through the Parliament".

Tourism & Transport Forum Australia ceo Margy Osmond has praised Labor's move, criticising the holiday tax hike as "the sting in the tail of the compromise backpacker tax package."

"It was included without any consultation or forewarning to the tourism industry," she said.

"This is not a 'cup of coffee' increase, it's a $60 holiday tax on every Australian heading overseas and every international visitor coming to Australia," Osmond added.

The short inquiry will report back in Nov.

HK Airlines Qld boost

HONG Kong Airlines will operate an additional two weekly services to the Gold Coast and Cairns from Dec, bringing the total number of flights on the route to five.

The increased operation is expected to deliver a further $70 million in overnight expenditure to Queensland, Qld Premier Anastacia Palaszczuk said.

"Already we have secured more than 600,000 extra seats with the potential to bring an extra $480 million in tourism expenditure for our economy," she remarked.

"That means more tourism jobs for Queensland."

Queensland Minister for Major Events Kate Jones credited the Govt's partnership with Gold Coast Tourism, Cairns Airport, Tourism Tropical North Queensland and Gold Coast Airport for the capacity boost.

"We know that increasing our airline capacity is key to growing tourism to Queensland."

Window Seat

NEW York City has a new roving tourist attraction.

A fortune-telling machine featuring a Donald Trump mannequin has been popping up around the city.

The mannequin offers passersby prerecorded predictions which in true Trump-style, are offensive.

Videos have emerged of the machine (pictured) saying "I see a huge investment into a high-speed rail system. Very advanced and very fast. And we're going to use it to deport 11 million illegal Mexicans."

Expedia, VB tie-up

EXPEDIA has partnered with VisitBritain in a bid to inject over £135 million of additional visitor spend to the UK economy over the next three years.

The collaboration includes a six month digital marketing campaign focussed around promoting #OMGB moments, as well as a TVC which will be launched in the US from Jan.

Expedia will also introduce a new content platform (expedia.com/OMGB) aimed at luring US visitors to the country.

"Working with commercial partners including Expedia amplifies our global marketing reach as we drive the inspiration to visit into bookings, boosting the economy and jobs across Britain," said VisitBritain chief executive Sally Balcombe.
