Luxury Escapes $200m TTV

LUX Group ceo Adam Schwab yesterday revealed that the company's Luxury Escapes brand is now transacting around $200 million in annual travel sales, comprising two thirds of the group's overall TTV.

Speaking at the Traveltech conference in Sydney, Schwab highlighted the business's rapid growth rate, and said its vision of "curating the world's best holidays" was growing the overall market for travel.

"We have the power to drive more incremental demand globally than any other channel... one of our promotions can produce more room nights for a hotel than Priceline or Flight Centre can move in a year," he boasted.

Schwab stated two thirds of Luxury Escapes clients said they hadn't intended to travel to their chosen destination before it was highlighted by Luxury Escapes.

"We literally create new demand - 70% of our customers travel more frequently," he said, claiming other intermediaries

Air India to boost Australian flights

AIR India chairman and md Ashwani Lohani (pictured) has confirmed the carrier will add three Australian frequencies from the second quarter of 2017, lifting total flights to ten per week.

He made the announcement at an event in Sydney last Fri, saying the response to Al's non-stop Boeing 787 services from Delhi to both Sydney and Melbourne had been "overwhelming".

At this stage details of which Australian cities will receive the extra flights haven't been clarified.

eDreams clarification

TRAVEL Daily wishes to clarify that Flight Centre's expansion in Europe (TD yest) includes the purchase of corporate businesses owned by online travel agency eDreams ODIGEO, and not the outright acquisition of the firm.

Corroboree West '17

TOURISM Australia will host over 300 frontline sellers from the USA, Canada, Brazil, the UK, Germany, France and Italy at its six-day Aussie Specialists training program on the Gold Coast, to be held in Oct next year.

Building on the success of the recent Corroboree Asia event in Perth for key Eastern markets, the inaugural Corroboree West event is the first time European and North American agents will be hosted together.

Attendees will receive specialised training, partake in sales workshops and experience tourism products first hand on the Gold Coast and nationally.

TA managing director John O'Sullivan said Corroboree events are always successful, with participants becoming "lifelong advocates" of Australia.

"The Aussie Specialist Program is the cornerstone of our distribution program and is one of the key ways we ensure Tourism Australia's marketing efforts are being converted into actual bookings," O'Sullivan added.

The Gold Coast was selected as following a bid process.

Bestjet "sky-high" returns

BESTJET, the online travel agency headed up by Rachel James, today revealed its financial results for 2015/16, reporting a pre-tax profit of $928,000.

The privately owned company claims to be the "fourth largest online travel agent in the country," with a market share in excess of 31%.

TTV reached $231 million, with James saying the strong result is due to low overheads and a "customer-centric, market-responsive team of professionals".

She said Bestjet's technology is "the most intuitive in the sector," with Bestjet having no booking charges or hidden fees "and an immediate email following the booking which includes all the booking details".

James, whose husband Michael was head of Strategic Airlines/ AirAustralia before its $97 million collapse in 2012, said Bestjet "monitors the market more than any other player".

Bestjet's profit result comes despite a long-running court battle with AFTA over the Federation's decision not to renew the company's ATAS accreditation (TD 13 Apr) under a section in the ATAS charter relating to 'close associates'.

MEANWHILE, Rachel James also revealed some of the company's expansion plans which include "the prospect of incorporating cruises into our offering".

More details in tomorrow's issue of Cruise Weekly.

Qatar 96-hr visa-free

QATAR Tourism Authority, Qatar Airways and Qatar's Ministry of Interior have announced a new tourism visa scheme aimed at encouraging more transiting pax to explore the nation.

Passengers with a minimum connection time of 5hrs at Hamad International in Doha are now able to stay for up to four days without an entry visa.

Until now, Qatar's transit visa scheme was capped at 48hrs.

The free transit visa is available to passengers of all nationalities upon confirmation of onward journey and completion of passport control procedures.

EK resumes BNE/SIN

EMIRATES will resume services from Brisbane to Singapore from 01 Oct after routine construction work at the Queensland capital's airport was completed.

Operating daily, EK433/EK432 is in addition Emirates' daily A380 service out of Brisbane to Dubai.

Flights on the relaunched route are operated by triple-class, 360 seat/suite Boeing 777-300ERs.

Celebrating the reintroduction of the BNE/SIN service with the trade, EK has released special industry return fares priced from $593 in Economy class and $2,743 in Business class.

The promo is valid for travel outbound between 13 Oct-24 Nov, on sale until 21 Oct.

GMTC relocates

GREECE and Mediterranean Travel Centre has relocated its HQ from Botany Road, Alexandria to a CBD location in Sydney.

The company's new address details are: Suite 801, Level 8, 309 Pitt St, Sydney NSW 2000 - the same building as AFTA.

Telephone numbers and emails remain unchanged.

Qantas, Sheridan get cosy

QANTAS has bedded down a new partnership with home and lifestyle brand, Sheridan which will see the parties collaborate on "the ultimate sleep experience" for its First Class Suites.

The Aussie businesses are uniting to design a luxury sleep product on QF's Airbus A380s, operating on routes from Sydney and Melbourne to London, Dubai, Los Angeles and Dallas/Ft Worth.

Germany

Head of Customer Product and Service Development, Phil Capps said one of the most important things for international travellers is getting a comfortable night's sleep, and the new Sheridan sleep experience will "certainly give customers the best chance at arriving well-rested".

The Sheridan range of products, expected to be phased in from mid-2017, will be crafted using the finest quality luxury fabrics and contemporary designs, Qantas said today.

MEANWHILE, Qantas has also released its new Martin Grant designed pyjamas and slippers for International First passengers.

The unisex navy and black trim pjs are 100% cotton and feature a tailored neckline and tapered silhouette - CLICK HERE for more.

Turkey terror threat

DFAT is urging Aussies to reconsider their travel plans to Ankara and Istanbul in Turkey due to a heightened threat of terrorist activity in the region.

The call comes as the US Govt advised its citizens it has "specific and credible threats of potential activity targeting US-branded hotels in Adana" in Turkey's south, DFAT said late last night.

The current level of advice on the govt's Smartraveller site is 'exercise a high degree of caution'.

Backpacker expands

BACKPACKER Deals is expanding its services beyond Australia and New Zealand to Southeast Asia, beginning with Cambodia, starting next month.

New Accor brand

ACCORHOTELS is tapping into 'Millennial-minded' travellers. overnight revealing plans to launch a new brand, "Jo&Joe".

The economy-brand concept will offer accommodation ranging from a shared "modular sleeping area", rooms and apartments for two to five people with a private bathroom and "out of the ordinary" spaces for people travelling alone or in groups of up to six, AccorHotels said.

Hotels will be based in citycentre locations close to public transport and less than 15 mins from major points of interest.

The concept will encourage locals to wander in, and will "always have something going on, be it a concert, a yoga class or a DIY workshop".

It will offer a bar, simple restaurant concepts and a shared kitchen and lounge area.

AccorHotel plans to open 50 Jo&Joe venues by 2020.

MEANWHILE, ground has been broken on the new Novotel Brisbane South Bank today.

Slated to open in 2018, the 238room hotel will be opposite the Brisbane Convention Centre.

Window Seat

FLIGHT Centre digital chief Sean Sutherland was his characteristically forthcoming self yesterday when speaking about the company's new Aunt Betty online venture at the Traveltech conference vesterday.

He admitted that while it was already transacting sales, the Aunt Betty website is very much a work in progress.

"She is ugly, she's nowhere near what we want her to be.

"Luckily, we're based on the Gold Coast so there are plenty of options for her to have some cosmetic surgery," he said.

When asked about marketing the new brand Sutherland also revealed that Flight Centre ceo Graham "Skroo" Turner is very much in favour of traditional methods.

"We're thinking of advertising in Noosa's local newspaper because that's where Skroo goes every weekend - and then he would think we're in the papers," Sutherland concluded.

The new package kings

YESTERDAY'S Traveltech conference in Sydney featured a session on "The New Package Kings," tracking the rise of Luxury Escapes, Scoopon Travel alongside Ignite Travel Group.

Each gave a presentation before an intriguing and sometimes volatile panel discussion revealing some fierce rivalries.

Lux Group ceo Adam Schwab highlighted the power of the Luxury Escapes brand while Scoopon general manager Jon Beros claimed his travel business had a current growth rate of 6070% per annum.

Scoopon and Luxury Escapes both claimed they were working on live connectivity between their respective websites and hotel partner systems, meaning clients will be able to redeem their vouchers and make bookings on the sites rather than having to liaise directly with the properties.
