Gai Tyrrell heads Globus

GLOBUS Australasia will complete its first change of leadership in 20 years next month as Gai Tyrrell takes over as managing director (TD breaking news yesterday).

Having announced her resignation as the regional head of Hawaiian Airlines last week (TD Fri), Tyrrell was yesterday confirmed as the successor to Stewart Williams, who stepped down from Globus in Feb after leading local operations since 1998 (TD 08 Feb).

"I am delighted to be joining the Globus family and I very much look forward to sharing my expertise with the team, as we build on past achievements and shape an even stronger future for the Australasia business," Tyrrell said of her new role.

"It's an absolute privilege to have the opportunity to lead the business in our region to exciting growth ahead," she said.

Globus has been led in Australia over the past four months by interim md and director of sales Peter Douglas, who welcomed Tyrrell's appointment.

"The Globus family of brands is at a very exciting point in its 90-year history and Gai will play a big part in leading us into the future as we envisage continued growth across our Avalon, Globus, Cosmos and Monograms brands," Douglas said.

Globus president and ceo Scott Nisbet said Tyrrell brought a deep appreciation of travel agency partners, "which she rightly views as a top priority".

AC Hotels to enter Aus

MARRIOTT International will introduce its AC Hotels brand to Australia in 2020, with the signing of a 200-room property in Melbourne.

The AC Hotel by Marriott Melbourne Southbank will open under a deal with Melbourne-based property development company Capital Alliance and be part of a 40-storey mixed-use development called Normanby.

It will feature collaborative spaces, including the AC lounge, which is a co-working space by day and a "social hub offering European-style tapas" by night.

The hotel will also offer its guests a 24-hour fitness centre, three food and beverage outlets and 150m² of meetings and events space.

"The AC Melbourne Southbank underscores the growing demand we're seeing in Australia for premium lifestyle hotels that offer style and functional design, as well as authentic and memorable travel experiences connected to the location," said Marriott International senior director development, Australia and New Zealand, Richard Crawford.

The hotel marks Marriott International's second major hotel deal with Capital Alliance, with Melbourne Marriott Hotel Docklands under construction.

The development will also feature high-end apartments, dining venues and shopping. See page five for photos.

QF Noumea seats

QANTAS has applied to the IASC for an extra 100 seats per week on services to New Caledonia.

It plans an additional weekly flight from BNE to NOU from Dec (TD yest) and has requested its seat allocation also be available to a subsidiary, such as Jetstar.

Airport probe underway

THE Productivity Commission has called for evidence on the market power of Australia's airport monopolies as it begins its investigation into whether greater regulation is needed at the country's key gateways.

In an issues paper released yesterday, the commission outlined the terms of reference for its investigation (TD 22 Jun) and highlighted key areas of concern that will be addressed over a 12-month period.

It has called for submissions from interested parties on a range of areas, including airport market power, the potential abuse of power, service quality, commercial negotiations and regional services.

Submissions are due by 03 Sep and a draft report is expected early next year.

The investigation follows concerns expressed by major carriers and the Australian

Competition and Consumer Commission (ACCC) over the monopoly power held by the country's privatised airports.

The representative body Airlines for Australia and New Zealand (A4ANZ) has accused airports of reaping excessive profits while failing to provide quality service to carriers and the public, and has called for an end to the current "light-handed" approach to government regulation.

The Productivity Commission says areas it will consider include potentially excessive fees and charges, inefficient operation, low quality services and the manner in which commercial negotiations are conducted.

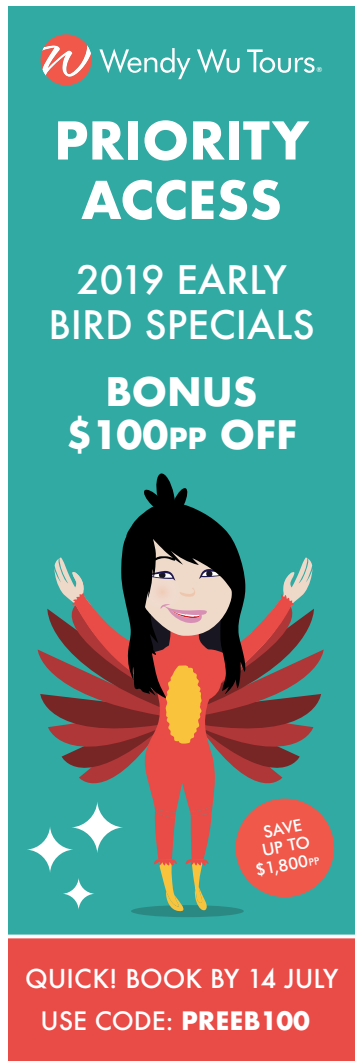

It will also consider if current ACCC powers are adequate to monitor airport monopolies.

Post-draft submissions and public hearings are planned in Mar and a final report to the Federal Government is due in Jun.

Japan flooding

THE Japan National Tourism Office (JNTO) has issued a warning stating that most of the country is under advisories of flooding and thunderstorms.

Kurashiki city and Soja city in Okayama prefecture have officially been issued with flood warnings, while Kita-Akita city in Akita prefecture is experiencing "ground loosening" heavy rain.

A statement issued by JNTO says that while it's too early to see what effects the heavy rain has had on tourism, "we would recommend all visitors check the news and any other sources of information before moving around, especially the areas of western Japan that have been majorly affected".

Buses have replaced trains between Hiroshima Airport and Higashi Hiroshima Station, with other airports experiencing flight delays and cancellations.

Village offer seeks $51m

VILLAGE Roadshow has announced a $51 million share offer as part of a plan to cut debt and help offset the impact of its struggling theme parks.

Having sought a trading halt on the ASX (TD yesterday), the group today revealed details of a pro rata non-renounceable entitlement offer at a new share price of $1.65.

Village says the fully underwritten offer is supported by its shareholders and represents a 24.3% discount on the corporation's last closing share price of $2.18 on Fri.

The move follows the group's announcement last week that it will sell its loss-making Wet'n'Wild Sydney waterpark to the Spanish operator Parques Reunidos to raise $37 million (TD 02 Jul).

Village also provided a trading update, in which it said its Queensland theme parks continue to be affected by the tragedy at rival attraction Dreamworld.

Village operates the Sea World, Warner Bros. Movie World and Wet'n'Wild Gold Coast parks.

"As happened in similar tragedies overseas, attendance has been impacted on rides," Village said.

"Gold Coast parks also experienced lower than expected attendances over the Easter school holidays in Apr, which coincided with the Commonwealth Games."

Village said it expected a net loss after tax of between $10 and $6 million this financial year, in line with a previous guidance provided in Apr.

- Have an in-depth understanding of the corporate travel market
- Able to maintain close working relationships with all staff, agents and external stakeholders/partners

Join our passionate Helloworld Business Travel team as we change the future of Australian corporate travel.

If you are interested in applying for this role, please send you resume to careers@helloworld.com.au

Only short-listed candidates will be contacted

Kimberley tourism

THE West Australian Government is working to boost tourism to the Broome and Kimberley regions, following strong interest in discounted fares between Perth & Broome in May.

With more than 2,000 bookings already made for travel in Aug, the Government is working to ensure visitors are offered "more affordable holidays", with discount offers also available.

Scenic Le Tour

SCENIC has announced it is the primary sponsor for television series Taste le Tour with Gabriel Gate, a "gastronomic journey through the Netherlands and France" that will be aired as part of the 2018 Tour de France cycling event.

The series highlights the scenery, food and wine offered on board Scenic's river cruises and runs nightly on SBS until 29 Jul.

8Hotels turns to Airbnb

8HOTELS has announced the opening of a hotel made exclusively available via the Airbnb platform. The 35-room Little Albion

Guest House in Sydney's Surry Hills will be managed by a team of hosts led by local boutique hotel specialist Wendy Morris, representing a departure from using traditional online travel operators.

"Little Albion Guest House was created with the needs of today's luxury travellers in the front of our minds, which are the authenticity of a local experience, alongside world class boutique hotel service and ease of booking," said 8Hotels chief executive Paul Fischmann.

Features include an honour bar stocked with beverages and gourmet nibbles, and a rooftop garden space furnished with alfresco seating.

Prices start from $201 for the "Crashpad" rooms, and from $999 for classic-style one-bedroom accommodation.

The hotel is also available to be booked out as a "whole hotel" on Airbnb, with prices starting from $15,000 per night.

Zip-lining death

A MAN has been killed and his wife seriously injured following a zip-lining accident on the island of Roatan in Honduras.

The woman allegedly got stuck half way along the cable when her husband collided with her.

The newlyweds were visiting as part of a Royal Caribbean Int'l trip on the Allure of the Seas when the tragedy occurred.

LAST week I had the great pleasure of attending the Asia Pacific Travelport Live conference in Bangkok and got to talk with many travel agents from Australia and across the region. The main topic the conference covered was that change is not coming, but that it is here. When you sit in a conference session and the terms chatbot, artificial intelligence, the internet of things, big data and NDC are all referred to on multiple occasions, you definitely tune in. As a technology company it is very clear Travelport is all over these things as they relate to the travel industry and I am happy to extend a warm congratulations to all involved for bringing together such an interesting and thought-provoking group of people to talk about the change that is upon us.

The travel industry is still run by people and I suspect that will be the case for decades to come, but all of these new tech access components cannot be ignored. The world has changed and tech is firmly implanted in our hands. This is clear as the consumer moves quickly to rely upon smartphones as their preferred method to interact with the world and travel. To the point, it remains a fact that there are approximately one million (WTAAA survey 2017) consumer facing travel consultants in the world. That is a sales force that would be difficult to replicate in any other industry. In Australia, we remain a very strong human industry with some 21,000 full time workers working on the front line as travel consultants selling travel every day. The total number of people tallies to 32,000 full time equivalents working in the travel agency community. Even with all the tech talk that went on at Travelport Live, it is clear nobody is saying that people will be removed. In the end the world needs someone to turn the computers on and off, right?

On the capturing of data, I am really pleased with the latest set of AFTA Fact Sheets that have been released for all in the industry to use and to assist in understanding how the in direct distribution industry is going. CLICK HERE to see the latest industry data. Australia is now the eighth largest outbound travel industry in the world by numbers. We have 14 million passports on issue and the value of the outbound industry tops $37 billion. Anyone in the Aussie travel industry who thinks agents are not important to the future of distribution better think again, because while a chatbot might tell you what you want to hear, a travel agent can tell you where to go.

Travelleague's 90th anniversary

THERE was much cause for celebration last Friday as Travelleague marked its 90th anniversary at a special event held at Melbourne's Atlantic on Central Pier.

Event organisers Craig Hunt from Ski Max and Matthew Flemming of The Kimberley Collection welcomed 300 attendees to Melbourne's pinnacle social and networking event for the travel industry which also doubled as an opportunity to raise $8,000 in support of the Reaching Out charity which tackles homelessness.

Speaking at the event, Heidi Victoria MP, Shadow Minister for Tourism and Major Events, shared her vision for growing tourism in regional Victoria.

Major sponsor Royal Brunei Airlines provided several prizes with one lucky attendee picking up flights to London. See more photos at facebook.com/traveldaily.

AccorHotels' new concept

ACCORHOTELS' new mobile and sustainability concept, Flying Nest, is a step closer.

Flying Nest has entered the commercialisation stage in the business-to-business market, following the success of its pilot project in France.

Aimed at business-to-business clients, such as event organising agencies, exhibition organisers, festivals, corporate clients and AccorHotels partners, Flying Nest would provide "unique hospitality experiences during outstanding events and meet accommodation needs where hotel capacity is at saturation point," said AccorHotels.

Each island would consist of six modules with five guests rooms and be made from converted marine containers to ensure easy transportation.

AccorHotels' new business senior project manager Damien Perrot also flagged potential for Flying Nest to be offered direct to consumers in 2019.

Airbus 4.4% growth

THE world's passenger fleet is predicted to more than double to 48,000 aircraft in 20 years, according to Airbus' new Global Market Forecast 2018-2037.

Airbus says traffic will grow at 4.4% per year, which is expected to be driven by private consumption increasing 2.4 times in emerging economies, higher disposable incomes and a near doubling of the middle class.

Emerging countries will account for over 60% of economic growth, with trips per capita to multiply 2.5 times.

Valued at US$5.8 trillion, the 37,390 new aircraft required consist of 26,540 for growth and 10,850 to replace less fuel efficient aircraft.

Countdown is on! | 1-2 August, Sydney

Don't miss the pre-eminent summit for the Australia Pacific region!

CAPA's home event, the Australia Pacific Summit, kicking off in three weeks' time (1-2 August, Sydney), will explore high level aviation and corporate travel management themes. The agenda will address commercial and operational pillars underpinning strategic decision making for both local and international airlines. For the corporate travel manager, a dedicated stream will focus on the corporate travel industry needs. Quickfire workshops will be led by recognised travel experts and explore a wide range of topics.

Spanning two days, the summit attracts 600+ industry peers, experts and leaders. As the region's largest strategic aviation and corporate travel summit, this is one event not to miss.

AVIATION HIGHLIGHTS

- APAC aviation industry outlook
- Infrastructure outlook & future of Western Sydney Airport
- Digital innovation in the airline & travel industry
- Growth of low cost long haul airlines
- Frictionless travel through AI & biometrics

CORPORATE TRAVEL HIGHLIGHTS

- Airline negotiations in a supply driven market
- Sourcing hotel rates in a highly competitive market
- Managing TMC costs
- Evolution of payments, the arrival of NDC & why it matters for the corporate travel industry
