

Croatian Supertour for Globus stars

THE Globus family of brands has rewarded its 30 top-selling Australian and New Zealand travel agents with a spectacular annual Supertour – this year in stunning Croatia.

Highlights of the 2018 event included the natural beauty of Plitvice National Park, donning aprons for a traditional Croatian cooking class and venturing south to the Konavle Valley where they indulged in local wines.

The group was also lucky enough to visit nearby Slovenia to take in the sights of Ljubljana and discover the picturesque surrounds of Lake Bled.

Following three final relaxing days at their private beach resort in Dubrovnik, the tour ended on a high with the agents attending a special gala dinner. Each agent was given a beautiful mask and whisked to Dubrovnik's Old Town for a masquerade ball inside the 16th century Revelin Fortress.

THE group on the rooftop of Revelin Fortress in stunning Dubrovnik.

Agents can earn a place on the 2019 Supertour by selling Globus premium tours, Cosmos value-oriented tours, Avalon Waterways river cruises and Monograms independent packages.

For more info CLICK HERE.

PREDJAMA Castle in Slovenia - the group explored the renaissance castle built within a cave mouth.

SUPERTOUR achievers hit the kitchens for a cooking class in Split.

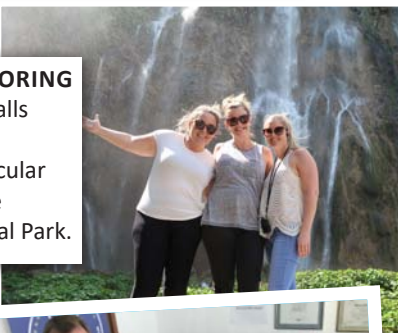

AGENTS dance the night away at Revelin Fortress.

GLOBUS Australasia interim md Peter Douglas cuts a cake celebrating the company's 90th birthday.

EXPLORING waterfalls in the spectacular Plitvice National Park.

ENJOYING a meal at Restaurant Zoi in Diocletian's Palace in the old town of Split.

TASTING wine, olive oil and liqueur in the Konavle Valley.

AGENTS shopped at local markets and donned aprons for a cooking class in Split.

THE group takes in the sights of Dubrovnik during a tour of the old town.

