Funnies Flashback

WE'VE trawled through the TD Window Seat archives to give you a blast from the past. Here's some gems from 11 Feb 2014:

TOURISTS visiting the Chinese resort region of Sanya have been warned to keep their gear on, with an official crackdown on nudity by local officials.

According to the Xinhua news agency, people who strip off in public could be arrested and detained for up to ten days.

The report says most of the potential offenders are middle-aged men from China, with regional party secretary Luo Baoming saying that "normal people will not swim or sunbathe naked in a public place...this kind of behaviour is not consistent with China's cultural traditions".

The campaign is being conducted via the use of loudspeaker announcements and police patrols, with the news agency saying that those who take no notice will receive "education through detention".

ETIHAD Airways may need to do even more brand marketing in Australia if the experience of a hapless contestant on Channel 9's Millionaire Hot Seat yesterday is any indication. The woman, pictured, incorrectly chose Qatar Airways when asked which of four airlines was the flag carrier of the United Arab Emirates.
