

Icon under a microscope

THIS landmark is iconic and easily recognisable when you see the whole picture, but can you identify it from this small portion of the image?

Intricately carved, this fountain is the most iconic in the city and was built at the terminal point of the Acqua Vergine, one of the city's most important modern aqueducts.

Work began on the fountain in 1732 and was completed in 1762 and depicts the god of water.

A-maze-ing

CAN you find your way through this maze?
Start at the top and finish at the bottom.

Keep up to date with Travel Daily
on the go

Travel Daily

Funnies Flashback

WE'VE trawled through the TD Window Seat archives to give you a blast from the past. Here's some gems from 08 Oct 2014:

SEAFOOD is usually served on the plane as a meal, not often being rounded up by the crew.

Over the weekend, a US Airways flight from New York LaGuardia to Charlotte due to depart at 6:59pm was delayed due to a shipment of live crabs breaking free of their enclosure in the aircraft's cargo hold.

While some of the tweets from passengers relating to the delays were hilarious enough, the official line from the airline regarding the delay was due to "some seafood cargo problems".

One tweet read "Have to catch crabs before we can board plane. Seriously", with another saying "sound of @USAirways gate agent killing dreams".

The crustaceans were rounded up fairly quickly and the plane landed in Charlotte around half an hour behind schedule.

Famous faces

THERE are three different faces that make up this picture.

They are a mixture of famous celebrities and travel names.

Can you figure out who the eyes, nose and mouth in this picture belong to?

And don't worry if you can't guess them all, two out of three ain't bad!

ANSWERS 03 SEP
Icon under a microscope: Trevi Fountain, Rome, Italy
Celebrity faces: Eyes - Damian Borg, Norwegian Cruise Line, Nose - Audrey Hepburn, Mouth - Boris Johnson