TFC predicts solid recovery

TOURISM Australia's Tourism Forecasting Committee (TFC) says it expects 2010 will bring with it a turn-around in the number of people travelling, domestically and internationally.

In its latest outlook released yesterday, the TFC is predicting that overseas arrivals will rise by around 4.3% to 5.8 million, on the back of firm growth from the US and Chinese markets.

That's a sharp about-face to the forecast made in Dec last year when the TFC suggested overseas arrivals would stoop by 4%.

The TFC is also hopeful that domestic tourism numbers will improve with close to a 3% growth (or 6.5m) estimated for 2010, up

QantasLink rebuts Rex allegations

QANTAS has brushed off suggestions made by Regional Express about "predatory pricing" by QantasLink for its reason to abandon the Mackay-Townsville route (TD yesterday).

A QantasLink spokesman said Rex's decision to cease operations on the service from 01 Jan was "their own business."

"We are well aware of our legal requirements and reject the suggestion that QantasLink engaged in 'predatory' pricing."

"QantasLink is committed to providing services that meet the needs of regional Australia. That includes offering competitive fares," the spokesman told SMH.

Regional Express began flying on the North Queensland route on 01 Oct but claims QLink dropped its fares by about 35% making it unsustainable for Rex to compete.

200,000 from this year.

"What we're suggesting is that there will be a solid recovery, 4.3% is a good figure for the new year," said the committee's chairman Bernard Salt.

Unfortunately for local tourism providers, outbound tourism is still expected to outstrip inbound arrivals for some time.

Growth is also predicted for the following years, with the Tourism Forecasting Committee thinking inbound arrivals will escalate to 4.9% in 2011 and taper off at 4.7% in 2012.

CZ ups SYD capacity

CHINA Southern Airlines will upgrade its Sydney service from an Airbus A330-200 to a larger and newer A330-300 on 11 Jan, increasing capacity by about 10%.

CZ's 292-seat three class jet will operate daily between Sydney and Guangzhou, China.

General manager Australia/NZ James Liu said, "Australia is an important market for our company, and a market in which we will continue to add seats in order to meet customer demand."

The aircraft features China Southern's "Apollo" full flat seats in First Class and "Horizon" 165 degree seats in Business Class.

Gorilla permit deal

New luxury hotel planned for Sydney

FURTHER details about the proposed 22-hectare Lend Lease project to be built at the vacant Barangaroo site on the Sydney harbour foreshore (TD 21 Dec) are starting to emerge.

Plans include a multi-storey luxury hotel to be erected on a manmade finger wharf which juts out into Darling Harbour, not far from the King St Wharf precinct.

It's expected that if approved, the 90 metre wharf will impact on the flow of water-way traffic, incl ferries and cruise companies.

Barangaroo is a former shipping port that the NSW Government intends on converting into an extension of Sydney's CBD, that will also include a foreshore park and recreational areas.

Hyatt India move

HYATT Hotels Corporation will open five new hotels in India from mid-2010 in a move which the group says "illustrates our commitment to expanding our global footprint".

Properties include the Park Hyatt Mumbai, Grand Hyatt Goa, Grand Hyatt Pune, Hyatt Place Pune and Hyatt Place Mundra.

$600 Bench saving

BENCH International has discounted the price of its Grand Tour of South Africa by $600 per couple on select dates next year.

The trip ventures to Kruger NP, Swaziland, the Wild Coast, Garden Route, Cape Town and more over 15 spectacular days.

The deal applies to departures on 07, 14 and 28 Feb, with prices starting at $2,350 per person.

For info phone 02 9290 2877.

Best in Travel 2010

AUSTRALIA has missed out on being named as one of Lonely Planet's Best in Travel or Best Value destinations for 2010.

The guidebook recommends the best places to visit next year are El Salvador, Germany, Greece, Malaysia, Morocco, Nepal, New Zealand, Portugal and Suriname.

Iceland, Thailand, London, South Africa, Malaysia, Mexico, India, Bulgaria, Kenya and Las Vegas have all been suggested as best destinations for where your dollar will go further.

Virgin links TNQ with NZ

THE Virgin Blue Group's New Zealand based offshoot, Pacific Blue, will launch a twice weekly direct service between Cairns and Auckland, raising seats on the route by 79 per cent.

The route represents Virgin's first international route based from Cairns, and will operate on Tue and Sat's effective 23 Mar.

EK A380s to Paris

EMIRATES will today commence a thrice weekly service between Dubai-Paris using one of its A380 superjumbos.

EK will start daily operations on the route using a 489-seat A380 on the route from 17 Jan 2010.

Smoke in cockpit

A JETBLUE aircraft performed an emergency landing in Bermuda overnight after the pilots of the aircraft reported smoke coming out of the flight controls.

The aircraft reportedly landed safely at LF Wade Intl Airport.

DJ chief executive Brett Godfrey said the new service will boost tourism to Tropical North Queensland, which currently lures around 30,000 New Zealanders each year.

"We know that by putting more seats into the market and creating more competition we will be helping to stimulate tourism to the popular Far North Queensland region," Godfrey said.

Adding, "the non-stop services will negate the need for travellers in either direction to connect via other ports, so a trip 'across the ditch' will be much quicker, more convenient and affordable."

DJ will operate one of its Boeing 737-800 jets on the route.

To kickstart the CNS-AKL launch, Virgin is offering a 7-day 'Happy New Year Sale' from today until 05 Jan with fares priced from $249.

Regular lead-in fares will start at $349, which DJ says is around 15% cheaper than its competitors on the same non-stop link.

Window Seat

SOME people just never listen!

Best Job in the World winner Ben Southall was stung on his elbow by an irukandji jellyfish while jet-skiing off Hamilton Island last weekend, after ignoring Tourism Queensland's advice to wear a stinger suit.

The 34-year-old former British charity worker suffered headaches and nausea after the minor sting, but has since recovered following immediate medical treatment.

With only one day to go before his $150,000 gig comes to an end, Southall tweeted yesterday "Horrible incident. Lesson learnt - always wear a stinger suit."

EVER wondered what the secret of the mile high club is?

A philosopher claims he has solved the mystery of why lascivious plane passengers can risk everything to join the high altitude club.

After spending a week observing by-passing passengers through Heathrow airport, writer Alain de Botton discovered that the fear of death makes them shed their inhibitions.

"Because subconsciously they accept they might die while flying, it arouses ancient survival passions that sometimes cannot be quelled", he said.

"The possibility of a plane crash can perform miracles in a relationship where there is no passion", de Botton added.

ALASKA Airlines has introduced a new Disney themed aircraft to its fleet, with livery featuring Mickey and Minnie Mouse, Donald Duck, Goofy and for the first time, Pluto (pictured below).

The US carrier will operate its fourth Disney jet on routes from California across its network over the next seven years.

AS also operates the Magic of Disneyland aircraft adorned with Tinker Bell and the Spirit of Make-A-Wish jet that features Aladdin.

Fiji tempts TravelManagers

ALMOST 200 participants, including a contingent of TravelManagers from across Australia, recently attended a Fiji mega destination familiarisation sponsored by Tourism Fiji.

The participants were split into smaller groups, each exploring different parts of Fiji including the Mamanuca Islands, the Yasawa & Northern Islands, Denarau Island and Vitu Levu's Coral Coast, before rejoining for a mega famil trade day and gala dinner event at the Sofitel Fiji Resort & Spa.

TravelManagers executive gm, Mandy Scotney, said "the objective of the trip was to give agents and personal travel managers an in-depth taste of what the 'real' Fiji has to offer".

BA baulks on selling OpenSkies

BRITISH Airways may be backing down on its move to offload its OpenSkies all premium operation between Paris and New York.

Earlier this year BA flagged selling the division, however when 5 investors showed interest in the offshoot, the British flag-carrier abandoned the idea and is now looking to finance the project itself with £25m (AU$44.5m).

Orient Inca signing

THE Orient-Express Hotels Ltd. group has acquired the Hotel Rio Sagrado in the Sacred Valley of the Incas, boosting its number of properties in Peru to five.

The 21-suite hotel opened in Apr 2009 and is located three kilometres from Urubamba and 15mins from Ollantaytambo.

Orient-Express also operates the Machu Picchu Sanctuary Lodge, the Las Casistas del Colca and the luxurious Hiram Bingham train linking Cuzco and Machu Picchu.

Qantas carry on

QANTAS is advising agents that the governments recent changes to aviation security regulations now mean a number of previously prohibited items can now be carried through security screening points to sterile areas at airports around the country.

Objects include umbrellas with metal points, knitting and crochet needles, pointed metal files (incl nail clippers), corkscrews and racquets used to play tennis, squash and badminton, along with metal knives with rounded ends.

Unsurprisingly, firearms are still on the prohibited list.
