Moneydirect to close 30 Sep

AMADEUS and Sabre still aren't commenting on the global shutdown of their Moneydirect travel industry payments processing joint venture (TD breaking news yesterday), but rival eNett has confirmed that it's working with Moneydirect to facilitate a "seamless transition" by the end of Sep.

The shock announcement came as a surprise to many agents, but it's believed that Moneydirect has been flagging the closure with big wholesalers for some weeks.

eNett International, which is backed by Travelport, is being recommended to Moneydirect's Australian and NZ customers, and the companies have entered into a "strategic relationship" to help with the transfer.

eNett has agreed to honour the existing Moneydirect fee structure for the first 12 months.

"With a substantial client base in Australia and New Zealand already, eNett has the capability and market expertise to seamlessly transition Moneydirect's customers to its state-of-the-art payments platform," said eNett ceo Anthony Hynes.

Moneydirect customers can register at www.enett.com.au or email the support centre on support@enett.com for info.

MEANWHILE back office agency technology provider Tramada has also confirmed its support for eNett, which will make it easy for Moneydirect users to migrate to the alternative system.

Norfolk Island slashes taxes

THE Norfolk Island government has announced a major reduction in passenger charges and taxes, with the change hoped to significantly boost visitation from Australian travellers.

Passenger movement charges have been reduced, while the govt has also completely removed the $40 departure tax.

The island's minister for tourism, Andre Nobbs, said the combined reductions would effectively cut the overall ticket cost by $70 for each Norfolk Island visitor.

"Norfolk Island Government is committed to ensuring that our Island is an affordable destination for Australian travellers," he said.

Norfolk Air ceo Jeff Murdoch hailed the move, saying it was a welcome boost for the island's tourism industry.

"The $70 reduction makes the overall fares to/from Norfolk so much more competitive," he said.

And Norfolk Island Tourism gm Wayne Emery said the move would capitalise on increasing interest in the destination after its recent World Heritage Listing.

He said many travellers to Norfolk are repeat visitors "and we hope the reduced airfare brings them back to our South Pacific Paradise all the more often."

Extent of CHC quake on bed count

IN A STARK reminder about the dire situation facing Christchurch accommodation providers, Christchurch & Canterbury Tourism's Jul newsletter features a table outlining the latest bed situation (right).

Although Holiday Park bed counts remain the same pre the 22 Feb quake, there are about 56% less tourist beds citywide. Hotels and backpackers have suffered severely, down around 72% less beds, hotels dropping by 4,265 for a current tally of just 1,685, and backpackers down 1,610 to only 606.

Big dump at Falls Crk

VICTORIA'S Falls Creek ski village has recorded 21cm of fresh snow since yesterday due to a current storm cell, which has also seen windchill temperatures fall to a massive minus 18 degrees.

More snow dumps are expected over the coming week, allowing the resort to open more terrain.

Wong group incentive

HELEN Wong's Tours is offering travel agents a $50 gift voucher for each group tour booked online from now until 31 Aug.

SmartGates in Darwin

DARWIN International Airport last week introduced SmartGate facilities to speed up the passport control processing time for Aussie & NZ travellers over 18 on arrival.

Darwin is the eighth and last domestic airport to be fitted out with SmartGates, behind Sydney, Melbourne, Perth, Adelaide, Brisbane, Cairns and Gold Coast.

GSR fuel surcharge up

GREAT Southern Rail has lifted its fuel surcharge on the Indian Pacific, The Ghan & The Overland between $2 and $9 per sector, effective for sales after 01 Aug.

The move is in relation to high oil prices, GSR chief executive officer Tony Braxton-Smith said. Platinum Service on the Indian Pacific and The Ghan will rise by $9 to $54, while Gold Service is going up $6 to $36.

There is no change in fuel surcharge on The Southern Spirit.

Aussie Tahiti spike

TAHITI Tourisme has recorded a 50% year on year rise in Aussie travellers to the Tahitian Islands in the first four months of 2011.

Australian visitors almost reached the 1,000 mark during Apr, an 86% increase compared to the same time last year.

2,564 Aussies arrived in the South Pacific destination in Jan-Apr, up from 1,693 in Jan-Apr 10.

Window Seat

PASSENGERS on board a Japanese bullet train this week panicked after spotting an unusual travelling companion.

The train was brought to a screeching halt between Osaka and Kyoto after a one metre-long Honduran milk snake was found curled up on a seat.

Wildlife staff were called in to capture the reptile which is believed to have escaped from a passenger's luggage.

DFAT yesterday reissued its travel advisory for Spain, adding new (and fairly obvious) alerts about this month's Running of the Bulls in Pamplona.

The special bulletin points out that participating in the event - which involves racing a herd of enraged sharp-horned cows through the city streets - is dangerous.

It also warns that "some foreigners, including Australians, jump off fountains during the festivities in Pamplona."

"This activity has resulted in severe injuries and death".

The update adds further advice that travel insurance "may not cover you if you participate in high risk activities, such as running with the bulls or jumping off fountains".

Strategic delays cost

STRATEGIC Airlines' incident last month which saw one of its Phuket bound Airbus A330-200s forced to divert and subsequently grounded in Kuala Lumpur will cost the airline over $1 million.

The Sydney Morning Herald reported Strategic's chief of commercial Damien Vasta, as saying the incident has "been a lesson learned."

The A330 ended up being grounded in KUL for four days, while it sourced a spare part from Airbus' Toulouse facility.

A number of Strategic flights to and from Phuket were delayed as a result (TD 20 Jun), and the airline needed to provide accom for some passengers for up to a week on the Thai island.

"We do realise we have to get this right now because, if we do have disgruntled passengers next time, they may not give us another chance," Vasta said.

He added that Strategic would look at putting of one of its own staff on any future flight that's been modified, as a chaperone, to ensure "questions are answered so they feel they have a direct conduit to the business."

It's understood that Strategic provided disrupted passengers with free accommodation, a full refund and another free trip.

At the time of the incident, Strategic Airlines told Travel Daily "We will be taking this issue up later with our service provider."

Money

WELCOME to Money Talk, TD's Tue feature on what the Australian dollar is doing.

$1AUD = US1.072

THE Australian dollar is continuing its unprecedented strong run, despite weaker local economic data this week which confirms the Reserve Bank is unlikely to raise interest rates in the near future.

Declining consumer confidence and retail sales in May saw the dollar dip slightly, but it's still hovering at near record highs - which is helping the travel industry avoid the travails currently being experienced by other parts of the economy.

AFTA UPDATE

The latest insights from AFTA's Chief Executive, Jayson Westbury

FIRSTLY, I would like to extend a great big congratulations to Bruce Piper and the team at Travel Daily on their 17th birthday. Only one more year before they can legally have a drink to celebrate. Well done on this amazing achievement as a business, particularly a business that is so reliant on the support of the travel industry.

Travel Daily continues to surprise us all, entertain us, support us, give us the news good and bad and provide a wonderful vehicle for the industry to interact and talk to each other. Well done to all involved.

As we all enjoy the excitement of TD's 17th birthday, the industry is preparing for the gala night of nights that is the AFTA National Travel Industry Awards 2011 (NTIA). With 5 sleeps to go, those that have secured their tickets have no doubt started to pack if they are coming from interstate, or confirm their hair appointments for the big night.

The 2011 event is set to be as big or even bigger than past years, if that is possible. I think that the mid evening entertainment is going to be amazing and I am sure all of those attending will be talking about it for a long time. We really have a wonderful program this year and it is not possible to do this without the very supportive sponsors.

Qantas as our major sponsor provides AFTA with unquestionable support and this is greatly appreciated.

Travel Daily also as one of the media sponsors continues to provide great coverage leading up to the event and of course will have all the news, gossip and pictures that follow next week.

All of the other sponsors, who have been advertised in Travel Daily regularly and can be acknowledged at <http://www.afta.com.au/NTIASponsors2011>, continue to help make this event a signature night for the travel industry.

We also thank Singapore Airlines who have again this year sponsored the AFTA after party, something that so many enjoyed last year.

So the stage is set, the trophies are printed, the program has been delivered and we all wish the finalist all the very best of luck for this year's bigger than ever, NTIA.
