Travel Daily on location in Phuket, Thailand

Today's issue of TD is coming to you from the inaugural "Experience Asia" Jetstar family trip, attended by six top-selling JQ agents from Australia & NZ

PHUKET has no shortage of Aussies coming to visit, and it is easy to see why - the place is an absolute melting pot of activity which must be experienced to be truly believed and understood.

After a restful night at the Mercure Phuket Deevana Resort, Jetstar's maiden family group were eager to see the sights, and they were not disappointed.

The morning was spent at the Siam Safari Park, followed by lunch on a traditional junk boat before a free afternoon, with the hotel pool quickly in their sights.

Last night saw us head to the Phuket Fantasea dinner and show, widely regarded as the premier evening event in town.

And then it was time to hit the famous Phuket nightlife in Bang La Road - for photos from the day's activities, check out page 7.

QF argues codeshare pros

THE Qantas Group has disputed presumptions by the International Air Services Commission that codesharing arrangements are "intrinsically anti-competitive."

In a new submission requesting an extension of Jetstar Airways' pact with Japan Airlines between Australia and Japan, QF Group's exec manager of Government & International Relations said the IASC's "underlying assumptions" about codesharing are potentially inhibiting growth.

QF is seeking an extension of the JQ/JAL deal until 30 Jun 2017.

"Codeshare arrangements allow competition on routes that may be unserved or are monopoly routes," Tony Wheelan said.

"Furthermore, a codeshare, such as the Jetstar/JAL arrangement, creates competitive tension as the carriers compete against each other to sell inventory, albeit on the same aircraft," he argued.

Wheelan said a waning demand recovery on the Australia-Japan route, unlikely to change greatly in the foreseeable future, has forecasts suggesting traffic will remain "subdued" going forward.

The rise of low cost carriers, a lack of investment in critical tourism infrastructure & changes in Japanese consumer travel trends have "served to irrevocably change the Aus/Japan route."

"We believe that continued and forecast weak market conditions, liberalisation of traffic rights providing unlimited capacity to points (other than Tokyo) and the availability of sufficient capacity for a new entrant to operate on the route should allay the Comm's previous concerns regarding competitive detriment of the codeshare arrangements," he said.

Shenzhen into Star

CHINESE carrier Shenzhen Airlines will this week become the latest addition to the fast-growing Star Alliance, with a joining ceremony to take place on Thu.

Shenzhen Airlines is the fifth biggest carrier in China, with more than 100 aircraft in its fleet and operations across southern and eastern China.

TD will be reporting live on location from the event in China.

Fantasea plots Sydney expansion

FANTASEA Cruises has appointed a Sydney-based sales and marketing team to develop its new business of Sydney Harbour and Palm Beach-based private charters, ferry transfers, day trips and whale watching tours.

Richard McKisack moves to Fantasea from Descarada Luxury Charters, and will work on domestic and Western International markets, while Kandi Chang will focus on the Asian Pacific market.

Fantasea, owned by Riverside Marine, is trading in NSW as Palm Beach Ferries and Sydney Harbour Ferries, with the southward expansion following the sale of its Queensland operation to Cruise Whitsundays earlier this year (TD 14 Jun).

Tourism Malay rejig

TOURISM Malaysia Australia has announced today that Mohd Roslan Abdullah will assume the role of NSW Director, replacing Shahrin Mokhtar who has held the position for the past 6 years.

Roslan has been at Tourism Malaysia for 16 years, leading its offices in Delhi and Sabah for the majority of that time.

The outgoing Shahrin will return to Kuala Lumpur taking up a new role with the tourism authority.

ACCC probes Hertz-Thrifty

THE Australian Competition and Consumer Commission is undertaking a review of the proposed acquisition of Dollar Thrifty Automotive Group by Hertz Global Holdings (TD 28 Aug) which was last week given the OK by regulators in the USA.

The ACCC commenced a review under its Merger Review Process Guidelines in Sep, and has asked for more information from Hertz to complete its deliberations.

A planned 01 Nov date for a final decision has been deferred pending receipt of the extra info, with a new decision date to be announced "in due course".

The long-running merger process will see Hertz pay US$2.3 billion for its rival, with "business as usual" at the Australasian Thrifty operation, for which the master franchise agreement is held by the NRMA.

MEANWHILE Hertz this morning announced a major expansion of its central Queensland presence to service the booming resources sector across the region.

The rental operator has sealed a new commercial agreement with Central Queensland Hotels Group to establish new outlets in motels at Blackwater, Dysart, Moura and Tieri, as well as expanding facilities in Roma and Toowoomba.

TA wines Chinese VIPs

TOURISM Australia has teamed with Wine Australia this month to promote the country's world class tourism and wine experiences to a group of China's leading wine and lifestyle opinion leaders.

The guests represent some of China's major media titles and wine blog sites.

Their trip has included visits to over 10 wineries in SA's McLaren Vale, the Adelaide Hills and Barossa Valley, as well as WA's Margaret River.

"Hosting these influential opinion leaders will help to spread word-of-mouth advocacy in China about the many and compelling reasons why Australia is a world class tourism destination, especially those experiences that are built around our wine and food offering," Tourism Australia md Andrew McEvoy said.

THAI superjumbo takes flight

THAI Airways International has joined the super jumbo club, this week starting daily A380 services on the busy Bangkok to Hong Kong route.

TD was aboard one of the first flights yesterday which carried the maximum load of 507 pax in a three-class configuration - 12 in Royal First Class, 60 in Royal Silk Business Class and 435 in Economy Class.

The two-hour flight on the short sector is being used to give the crew a chance to get to know the giant aircraft before it starts long-haul flights to Frankfurt on 15th December.

TG's second A380 will be delivered this Thursday, with another four over the coming months, and they'll also be used on the Paris and Tokyo routes.

Typical of THAI, pax are spoilt for choice, even in Economy Class where TD was seated in row 81K. Even way down the back, the plane is incredibly quiet on take off, and with a camera mounted on the tail, you can watch on screens in the cabin as the the big bird races down the runway and lifts into the sky.

It's quite a sensation.

Seat pitch is 82 centimetres in Economy which gives slightly more leg room than other planes, and the video-on-demand has a selection of 100 movies, 150 documentaries, 500 CD albums and 60 games.

There's a bar area, and also internet connection, with the carrier offering wi-fi, in-flight mobile use as well as SMS & MMS messages aboard.

THAI Airways International is now the ninth operator of the A380 which can transport 40 percent more pax than any other wide-bodied aircraft.

The carrier has orders for a total of six A380s, and plans eventually to deploy them to Australia.

New Dubai mega city

DUBAI, home of the world's largest shopping centre - aptly named The Dubai Mall - will go one better with plans revealed to build a new "mega city" with an even bigger shopping precinct.

Dubbed Mohammad Bin Rashid City, the project includes the new biggest shopping mall in the world - named Mall of the World - a Universal Studios theme park and hotel facilities.

Announcing the project on Sat, Dubai ruler Sheikh Mohammad Bin Rashid Al Maktoum said: "The current facilities available in Dubai need to scale up in line with the future ambitions for the city.

"Therefore we have to start work immediately on the third phase of development that is aligned to our Vision till 2030 and boost the UAE economy to enable it to enter a new era in which it will become the capital of entrepreneurship, arts, culture, and family tourism for over 2 billion people," the ruler said.

THE Spanish tourism minister for the Balearic Islands has been described as an "embarrassment to the country" after a hunting photo of him posing with the severed testicles of a deer on his head (below) was posted online.

Carlos Delgado's actions were described by animal rights campaigners as "dragging Spain back into the 11th century."

The politician defended the snap which was taken during a 2009 holiday, saying it was "a private matter".

Across the Cairns, Port Douglas and Palm Cove region, Mantra's

AFTA UPDATE

The latest insights from AFTA's Chief Executive, Jayson Westbury

OVER the past weekend I had the absolute pleasure of attending the Jetset Travelworld Network conference. It happened to be in Las Vegas.

For travel people and particularly people who love aircraft and flying, the group was treated to two of the most amazing aviators in the world. Captain James Lovell, the Apollo 13 captain (and backup commander on Apollo 11 for the lunar landing with Neil Armstrong) who under extraordinary circumstances in 1970 managed to navigate the spacecraft back to earth safely.

Captain Lovell gave the most awesome account of the mission, the team work involved with his fellow crew, and the men and women back at Houston. Now 84 years of age, Capt. Lovell stood on stage & delivered a compelling account as if it had happened last week - one of my career highlights and a unique opportunity to hear from this amazing aviator.

Now for most conference goers you would be wrapped that you could have this level of amazing presentation. But the JTN was then treated to another amazing aviation story from Captain Richard de Crespigny - the man in charge of the landing of what is now the famous Qantas A380 flight QF32 which departed from Singapore headed for Sydney at which time an engine exploded.

For both presentations, these two amazing human beings talk in detail of the circumstances, incredible ability to make the most important decisions in what can only be describe as something that you would never want to have to face personally. You could have heard a pin drop in a room with over 400 people for both presentations.

Both accounts can be read in books written by the respective men. What was also amazing was how Captain de Crespigny so openly declared at the conference that Captain Lovell had been someone he had studied and admired, and courtesy of an Australian travel conference, had the opportunity to actually meet him face to face.

A really amazing experience for everyone involved and one that I will remember for a very long time.

Travelzoo fined $50K

ONLINE travel firm Travelzoo has been hit with a US$50,000 penalty for failing to properly notify consumers when flights are being operated under a codeshare deal.

US authorities ruled Travelzoo hadn't disclosed the corporate names of the carriers operating flights or any other names under which those flights were sold to the public, on its website.

"As a result, consumers were unable to learn, at an early stage of the booking process, the ID of the airline that would actually operate the aircraft on which they were flying," the DOT said.

Phuket delivers for JQ sellers

JETSTAR'S incentive winners started their week in Asia with a bang, with their first morning spent at the Siam Safari Park in Chalong, about 20 mins south of Patong.

The park is famous for its Asian elephant sanctuary, with guests able to see a baby pachyderm show as well as ride on fully-grown elephants on a 30-min trek through the jungle.

Demonstrations on how the local Thai people make their own coconut oil, milk, rice and rubber are performed, with groups also able to ride in a cart dragged by a massive water buffalo.

Following this, lunch is enjoyed aboard a traditional junk boat that meanders out into the bay for a relaxing lunch cruise, before guests are returned to their hotels.

The famil group's evening began at the famous Fantasea dinner and show extravaganza, which has to be seen to be believed, before the night-owls headed to soak up some local nightlife.

Interest in the destination is also being driven by a major consumer and trade promotion, offering all Australian travellers flying Air NZ to Rarotonga before 03 Jun 2013 a NZ$100 gift card to spend on their holiday.

The bonus is available to all travellers except infants, meaning a family of four would receive NZ$400 in spending money.

The "Cooks Cash" promo is also being complemented with a trade incentive to win one of seven places on a Cooks famil next May - to be part of it register at cookislands.travel/cookscashincentive.

Cook Islands Tourism Corporation gm Australia, Kerryn Cook, told TD the Air NZ direct flights from Sydney are working well, with average loads of around 75% - and the service has also dramatically increased awareness of the destination.

She also confirmed that a new CEO of CITC was likely to be announced early next month following the departure of Carmel Beattie (TD 31 Jul).
