Viking sets out to conquer

VIKING River Cruises is continuing its push into the local market, with yesterday's release of its 2014 River Cruise Atlas including an exclusive new business class flight add-on.

MD Teresia Fors told TD yesterday that Viking's simple economy air offer, which offers a return fare to Europe for just $995, had worked because it was so easy to understand.

The deal includes taxes and seasonal surcharges, and is valid on a range of partner carriers including QF, SQ, EK, TG, CX, BA and AY, Fors said - for all Viking cruises and regardless of the cabin class booked.

For 2014, passengers wishing to fly in business class can do so by paying an additional $6000pp.

Viking has significantly lifted its already large capacity, with a huge 14 additional 'Longships' next year offering a range of new itineraries including in Portugal, France, Thailand and Myanmar.

Fors said she believes there's still huge potential for growth in the Australian market, with new passengers every year for the Amsterdam-Budapest route and keen interest in other voyages.

She added that the "fierce competition" in the local market had led to very high quality offers from all operators, with Viking distinguished by the direct ownership and management of its operations and huge size which "gives us privileged access to unique experiences".

"Although we are the David in the Australian market, globally we are Goliath," she added.

The 2014 release, which is the sixth program with specific Australia/NZ pricing, includes an earlybird offer with savings of up to $2,000 per couple valid for bookings made by 30 Jun.

SQ to launch 787-10X

SINGAPORE Airlines has placed a US$30b aircraft order including 30 Boeing 787-10X Dreamliners, making it the launch customer of the new incarnation if Boeing elects to proceed with development of the jet.

The carrier has also boosted an existing order of 40 Airbus A350-900 jets by a further 30 units, holding an option to upgauge the order to the larger A350-1000s, with the combined order valued at around US$30b at list prices.

The B787-10X is a "stretched" version of the Dreamliner, with a 323-seat capacity.

Qantas Apr up 4.8%

QANTAS Group passenger numbers grew 4.8% in Apr, but once again QF International declined, down 7.2% year-on-year to 463,000.

Jetstar Int'l is closing in, up 12.7% to 444,000 passengers, while JQ domestic also saw a 10.9% increase to 1.045m.

Mainline QF domestic grew 2.7% to 1.851 million, with the overall revenue seat factor being 77.6%, down 1.3 points.

New 'Club Jetstar' scheme

JETSTAR yesterday announced the launch of Club Jetstar, a new paid membership program offering access to "exclusive sales events and discounts".

The carrier said the move was a response to customer feedback seeking "more value and choice," with members receiving advanced access to at least four special sales a year, as well as discounts and bonus offers on travel insurance, credit cards and car rental offers.

It costs $39 to join and then $39.99 annually after the first 12 months, with Jetstar Group chief commercial officer, David Koczkar, saying the move is a "significant milestone" for the airline.

"With Jetstar customers now flying more often and to a greater variety of domestic and international destinations than ever before, Club Jetstar members can take advantage of access to exclusive flight offers as well as receiving special discounts on a range of products and services," Koczkar said.

"We will introduce further discount offers as the program grows to ensure even greater choice and value for our customers," he added.

A bonus $30 travel voucher is on offer for customers who sign up by 30 Jun, with the airline estimating a total value of $450 in the first year based on fare savings for a family of four, a 50% discount on the annual fee for a Jetstar Platinum Mastercard, 10% off travel insurance and a free weekend car rental upgrade.

Club Jetstar is being introduced in addition to JetMail, which is Jetstar's existing offer-based weekly email.

Lindblad's learning curve

EXPLORATION cruise operator Lindblad Expeditions' founder Sven Lindblad says he is on a quest to learn as much as possible about the Australian travel market ahead of the full rebranding of the Orion as the National Geographic Orion in Mar next year.

Speaking to Travel Daily at a function in Sydney last night, Lindblad said he had been interested in the Australian region - and the Orion in particular - for the last ten years.

"I'm here to try and understand what the possibilities are," Lindblad told TD.

"We got involved with a company (Orion) that has built up a very interesting business here...I think we have a great base to expand from here".

The company founder said he was very impressed with the way Orion operated and that many of his ships operating in other parts of the world were not as luxurious as the Orion.

"We have a lot of learning to do," he candidly commented.

"We're not taking anything away - we just plan to add things."

Lindblad said his partnership with the National Geographic Society - on which he serves as part of its International Council of Advisors - would play a strong part in his local operation.

He plans to add naturalists, videographers and photographers to expeditions, ensuring guests can learn how to boost their own photo skills as well as have access to quality mementos of their trip.

"We hope to have a significant presence here over the years".

Short-term plans for the Orion include fulfilling bookings in place until Mar next year, after which the ship will operate expeditions at Easter Island and other South American destinations, including Antarctic sailings from Ushuaia, before returning to the Kimberley region and also operating in remote parts of Indonesia.

More from Lindblad and Orion Expedition Cruises in next week's issues of Cruise Weekly.

ACTE forum series

THE Association of Corporate Travel Executives will next month host half-day Executive Forums in Melbourne and Sydney.

The Melbourne event is on 12 Jun at the Westin, while the Sydney forum will be at the Sheraton on the Park on 27 Jun.

The compact and convenient education and networking events are designed for professionals who partner with or have responsibility for the procurement and management of an organisation's travel program.

The sessions will feature the status and outlook for the economy, the latest corporate travel research from GDS firms Traveport and Amadeus, and advice on optimising data for improved decision making in the current cloud computing age.

Spaces are still available - see www.acte.org/allevnts.htm.

As a special bonus, the first Travel Daily reader to name all sponsoring partners of the ACTE forum will win a complimentary registration to one of the events - email akelly@acte.org ASAP.

Topdeck winter out

TOPDECK has released its Europe in Winter program a month ahead of schedule, with the new 44-page brochure featuring 26 winter trips including Christmas/New Year packages, skiing in Austria and add-on itineraries in Egypt, Jordan and Morocco.

There are also two new 'Explorer' trips featuring a max of 30 pax, and the program takes advantage of seasonal discounts to offer savings of up to 25% on summer prices - 1300 886 332.

Window Seat

HERE'S a lesson in making sure you have everything packed properly before you check out.

A ten-year-old boy has found $10,000 in a drawer at a Kansas City hotel where he was staying with his dad.

Cody Schaefer said his son Tyler is a curious child, and began opening all the cupboards after they checked in.

"I found money!" was the cry a few moments later, and much to his father's surprise it turned out to be a huge stack of bills.

They handed over the money to police, who are trying to track down previous occupants to find out whose cash it is.

THE rapid growth of outbound tourism from China is causing problems in some destinations, with reports of bad behaviour detailed in a report this week from the Beijing-based Tourism Research Centre of the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences.

A litany of unfortunate incidents was related, including a 15-year-old Chinese boy who scratched his name into a 3,500 year old temple in Luxor, Egypt.

Other offences included fake marriage certificates used to obtain honeymoon discounts in the Maldives, and a mother who let her three children defecate publicly on the floor of a Taiwan airport terminal.

The Chinese govt recently issued guidelines on acceptable behaviour for tourists, including dressing properly, queuing patiently and not shouting.

Doubletree takes the cookie

THE launch of Hilton's three new Doubletree properties in the Northern Territory earlier this month (TD 13 Feb) is just the start for the brand in Australia, according to Hilton Worldwide Vice President Australasia, Ashley Spencer.

Yesterday he provided an update on expansion plans for the brand, saying he's "hoping to be able to announce at least one more in Australia before the end of the year...and perhaps more".

Spencer said Doubletree was Hilton's fastest growing full-service brand worldwide, with about 325 properties in 79 properties across the globe.

Last year 49 new Doubletrees opened - a rate of about one per week - and that's set to accelerate in 2013 when 60 new properties are set to be added.

Growth is generally by acquisition rather than newbuild, with the Doubletree brand offering a full service offering, generally smaller than Hiltons with a more casual feel.

Formerly managed by IHG, one of the new Doubletrees is in Alice Springs and the other two are in Darwin, which Spencer said was a very strongly performing market.

Another Australian Doubletree will open by the end of next year in Karratha, WA, with Hilton targeting "anywhere we're not" for more properties - in particular secondary cities such as Townsville, Newcastle or the ACT.

A Doubletree hallmark is warm chocolate chip cookies which are given to each guest upon arrival, and Spencer is pictured above checking out the product.

Global IATA growth

PASSENGER traffic figures grew in all regions across the globe for the month of Apr, according to new figures released by IATA.

The airline group said the earlier Easter holiday period this year caused growth figures to be lower than normal.

Worldwide, seat demand was up 3.2% year-on-year, with emerging markets again leading the way in terms of growth.

Overall, capacity exceeded demand for the month, leading to a drop of 1% in average load factors, which closed at 77.8%.

The Easter holiday saw a smaller increase in traffic in the Asia Pacific region, which was up 2.4%.

A slowdown in economic conditions in China was cited as a key cause for the lower result.

NZ throws cool ski season soiree

DESPITE a somewhat chilly Sydney evening, Air New Zealand ushered in the 2013 ski season across the ditch at its annual winter themed party last night.

More than 200 of the industry's heavyweights were in attendance representing NZ's airline partners Virgin Australia and Etihad, along with Tourism New Zealand, Flight Centre, AFTA, Sabre, ACTE, Accor and many more.

Aussie rock music legend Jimmy Barnes was also in attendance, as was Air New Zealand ambassador and NRL superstar Benji Marshall.

Many guests were dressed in their favourite colourful ski gear, with plenty of cold drinks available in a spectacular ice-bar sculpture at the entrance.

The event also served as one of the first official industry functions for the recently appointed Air New Zealand Australia general manager Leanne Geraghty, who earlier this year replaced Cam Wallace (TD 07 Mar).
