Govt luxury tourism drive

FEDERAL Minister for Trade and Investment Andrew Robb is today chairing a meeting of the nation's Tourism Ministers as well as Tourism Australia at a specially convened meeting to map out a course of action for a national tourism reform agenda.

Robb - who was confirmed as the Minister responsible for Tourism last week (TD Fri) - said the meeting would provide a platform to develop cooperative efforts to support, strengthen and promote the travel industry.

"I welcome this early opportunity to meet with my state & territory counterparts to lay out the new Australian Government's vision for tourism," he said yesterday.

Robb commented the Abbott govt would pay a particular focus on "encouraging Australian tourism to compete at the high-value, high-quality end of the global tourism market."

Enhancing ties between Tourism Australia and Austrade in driving economic diplomacy & capitalising on new opportunities and growing markets abroad, are also key focuses of the meeting.

"Tourism is a critical component of my focus to increase export income, attract more international investment, create more jobs and strengthen Australia's prosperity.

"Tourism operates in a global marketplace and we are determined to demonstrate to the world that we are very much open for business," Robb said.

"Paul has played a vital role in the company and we express our most genuine and sincere gratitude to him for leading Creative Holidays to its current position and wish him only the very best for his career change."

Details of McGrath's successor will be announced once an appointment is finalised.
