Intrepid Grp free trip

INTREPID Group is rewarding clients who book 10 or more holidays with a free tour and a 10% discount for life as part of a new loyalty scheme.

Comprised of Intrepid Travel, The Family Adventure Company, Geckos Adventures, Peregrine Adventures, Peregrine Reserve and Adventure Tours Australia, the Intrepid Group will also offer a 5% saving to guests who book their second or subsequent tours (excluding Polar tours and Explorers Astronomy Tours).

Dubbed 'Intrepid Legends' after taking a 10th trip, the free tour can be valued up to $2,500.

To avail the offer, clients need to confirm which previous Intrepid Group tours they have travelled on at the time of booking.

Bangkok still calm

FOREWARNED demonstrations across eight zones in Bangkok yesterday (TD 07 Jan) have had little impact on public transport systems, Destination Asia advises.

The firm said all of the city's top tourist sights and Thailand's major tourist destinations remain open and have no restrictions.

"Bangkok city is still open for business and people are still going about their daily tasks with no hinderance," its said.

Visitors are advised to refrain from visiting the areas where protests are being held due to the number of people at the rallies.

No return for Brindabella

COLLAPSED regional carrier Brindabella Airlines will be wound up and cease to exist once the last four aircraft in its fleet are sold off, receivers have stated.

Brindabella appointed Korda Mentha as administrators about a month ago following concerns from CASA regarding the airline's maintenance operation.

Qantas immediately ended its short-lived codeshare agreement with the Canberra-based carrier as a result, and days later Brindabella suspended all future bookings "indefinitely."

Korda Mentha spokesperson Michael Smith revealed on Fri that most of the airline's planes had been leased and were now being returned to their owners.

The administrator said it was working to assure FQ's workforce of 140 that they would receive their entitlements, which are guaranteed by a federal govt scheme under numerous conditions, ABC News reported.

"All that's left to do is sell the remaining assets, which is four aircraft and some maintenance operations, and Brindabella Airlines disappears," Smith said.

Before Christmas, Gow-Gates Insurance Brokers said Brindabella's demise was a timely reminder for travel agents to ready themselves for new products which can ensure they are protected against credit card charge backs (TD 18 Dec).

Win a Ferrari drive!

Rail Plus appointment

NICKI Schleibs has today been named as the new sales manager for NSW/ACT at Rail Plus, starting 20 Jan, promoted from the firm's specialist reservations team.

Malaysia Air incentive

CONSOLIDATED Travel has launched an agent incentive in which it will reward top sellers of Malaysia Airlines flights with two $3,000 travel vouchers.

The Summer Spectacular Rewards promo is based on MAS sales made between 10-31 Jan.

Additionally, a $500 voucher will be awarded to the top selling agent every week of the incentive along with daily rewards.

See page seven for full details.

NHH introduces Milan

APARTMENT style accom in London and Paris, new hotels in Nice, Amsterdam, Munich, Vienna, Zurich and Prague and tailor-made packages in London, Dublin and Paris are among the developments introduced to New Horizons Holidays' just-released 2014 UK & Europe program.

Milan in Italy has been added as a new destination for the Perth-based wholesaler, along with premium flights offered with Qatar Airways, and a selection of new cruise lines.

MD Chris Evans said the program has gone from "strength to strength" since debuting in 2012.

First SureSave winners

THREE lucky agents have been chosen as the first week winners of SureSave's Take Off in 2014 sales incentive, with each taking home a Red Balloon Experience Voucher valued at $150 each.

A total prize pool of over $7,000, featuring a variety of prizes is up for grabs in the campaign, which runs until the end of the month.

The first winners were Julie Moore, Travel Counsellors; Julie Ninnis, Holidays For You and Kaye Pridham from Adelaide Travel.

To enter, agents need to sell SureSave policies, go online to www.suresave.net.au/take-off and complete a short survey.

An overall major prize of a Hot Air Balloon Experience for four people is also on offer to the store with the most improved sales.

Jobs affect Nov air traffic

RISING levels of unemployment in Australia and recent lackluster performances by stock markets led to a 1% decline in domestic air traffic for Nov, according to fresh official data from IATA.

The story was somewhat similar on a larger scale, with global figures tempering in the wake of stronger months of growth, with total RPK's up 4.1% for the month.

BW North Qld newbie

BEST Western Australasia has introduced its latest addition in North Queensland after signing the Townsville-based 4.5-star Best Western Islington Apartments.

It offers 30 one-, two- & three-bedroom self contained units.

Capacity increases exceeded demand, leading to a 1.4% drop in average load factors to 76.3%.

In the Asia-Pacific region, a jump of 5.5% was spurred largely by China and Japan, however traffic also failed to keep up with supply, seeing loads fall to 75.4% average.

"Demand growth hit a speed bump in November, but with continued modest improvements in economic conditions the outlook remains positive," IATA director general Tony Tyler said.

Indigo intro to Indo

Qantas accolades

AIRLINERATINGS.COM has today announced Qantas as the airline offering the Best Economy Class product in 2014.

"The airline's domestic economy class offering is a step beyond and quite simply the world's best," the company stated.

Qantas also took out the gong for Best Lounges, while Jetstar Group was awarded Best Low Cost Airline for Asia Pacific.

Air New Zealand was named as Airline of the Year.

Swagman farm trips take off

SWAGMAN Tours director Wayne Hamilton says the firm's Farm Tours program is now being picked up by travel agents seeking unique products for farmers.

Though primarily an Africa-centric wholesaler, the niche operator also has two separate divisions covering Farm Tours (see logo right) and Global Groups.

Swagman has steadily built its trade partnerships over the past 18 months after previously relying on a direct to consumer or referral business basis.

Farm itineraries include a significant portion of "technical visits" along with traditional holiday touring.

"We're more than just Africa," Hamilton told Travel Daily.

Seven itineraries are on offer in the Farm Tours range of product, travelling domestically, to the UK, Scandinavia & Russia, India, Mexico & Cuba and beyond.

"It's different product people haven't thought about," he said.

Swagman is one of just three companies packaging farm tours but is the only business offering full agency commission, he added.

A separate Global Groups division can also tailor itineraries for specific groups to select destinations worldwide.

Agents seeking more info on either division can contact Swagman on 1800 808 491.

Meanwhile, Hamilton said Swagman's Africa product is going gang-busters "but still has a long way to go" in terms of cut through with the trade.

Ship crime protocols

CLIA has welcomed a report from the US Govt Accountability Office acknowledging processes in dealing with crime taking place aboard cruise ships are working.

The government report refers to the Implementation of the Cruise Vessel Security & Safety Act 2010 and ten safety policies adopted by the industry in 2012 to address such matters that are mandatory for membership into CLIA.

For more details on the report, see today's TD Cruise Update.

AA/US c'share active

AMERICAN Airlines and newly merged partner US Airways have launched the first phase of a codeshare partnership, valid for flights taking off from 23 Jan.

Customers are now able to book flights on the websites of both carriers for selected flights on either network, with codeshare flight numbers added and bags seamlessly transferred through.

Initially, codeshare operations are limited to flights between hub airports of both carriers as well as AA East Coast Shuttle services and select international destinations.

MEANWHILE, a settlement of US$135m to be paid by American Airlines to financial services firm Cantor Fitzgerald over business and property losses suffered in the Sep 11 terrorist attacks have been approved by a US judge.

Peach appointment

BESPOKE air cruising operation Bill Peach Journeys has welcomed Lisa Taylor as its new Australia & New Zealand product manager.

Based in the Alexandria office in Sydney, Taylor will be involved in developing new itineraries and sourcing exciting new experiences on local & trans-Tasman journeys.

Window Seat

NEW Zealand second hand goods website Trademe.co.nz currently features a rather unique listing in the form of a former Qantas Boeing 747-400 aircraft - well, part of it anyway.

A private seller has listed the complete forward airframe and passenger cabin for sale with a price tag of NZ$130,000 O.N.O.

The deal includes the front of the aircraft from the nose to a point forward of the upper deck doors & includes cockpit lining, quadrant, control columns, upper deck seating and more.

Recommendations for what the rather dilapidated former glory of the QF fleet can be used for is also in the listing, with suggestions including converting into a house or a static display.

Airberlin, Etihad joint livery jet

AIRBERLIN and Etihad Airways yesterday revealed to the world a new specially designed Airbus A320 livery to symbolise the close ties forged by the airlines over the past two years.

"Partnerships are vital in today's aviation industry," airberlin chief executive officer Wolfgang Prock-Schauer said, adding the pact with the Abu Dhabi-based carrier had brought it many benefits including shares in joint revenue of €200 million.

Prock-Schauer also revealed the carrier would continue to expand its joint network with EY to cover India, Australia and South Korea.

Tas tourism priorities

THE Tourism Industry Council Tasmania has created a set of key policy areas and priorities for the industry in the lead up to a yet to be announced date for the next Tasmanian state election.

A list of seven priorities have been tabled, reflecting the focus of the Tasmanian tourism industry over the past few years.

They include political leadership for tourism, funding for Tourism Tasmania and events, as well as major tourism infrastructure.

"The next four years over the next term of government will be a critical period in the evolution of Tasmanian tourism," the TICT said.

"It requires strong leadership from govt and the industry - engaging tourism operators, Tourism Tasmania and other important sectors of govt and the economy that also contribute to the visitor experience in Tasmania," TICT commented.

Bahrain ski slope tick

BAHRAIN'S Municipalities and Urban Planning Affairs has given the green light for a new indoor theme park which will feature an indoor ski slope and ice arena.

The on-again, off-again project will be located within the Muharraq Grand Garden which will also contain a shopping centre, business centre, aquatic museum, mosque and more - not far from Bahrain Int'l Airport.

Arabian Business reports work on the $52.7 million theme park was originally slated to begin next month and take 2.5 years to construct.

AFTA UPDATE

The latest updates from AFTA's Chief Executive, Jayson Westbury

2014 is going to bring us all a new set of challenges. It will be a year in which travel agents come into the focus for all the right reasons.

As the transition from the regulatory environment moves from that of a licensed travel agent to an accredited travel agent, things will change.

It seems subtle on the surface but in reality it is a very big change. One that will bring new opportunities and some concerns, but in the end a new way of thinking. A new way for consumers to see the highlighted value that travel agents (especially the human version) can bring to a travel experience.

As ATAS comes to life in 2014, and the conversation with consumers starts both from ATAS and also from the state governments, who will roll out a communications plan that educates consumers about the changes to travel agents licensing laws, I am sure travel agents will become a focus for all.

This is something that AFTA members have wanted for a very long time and now with the power of ATAS behind the message, it is time to start the conversation with consumers about the value of travel agents.

All this will be in the background of another exciting year for travel. With exchange rates cooling a little, some commentators would have us all believe this will have a dramatic chink in the desire for Aussies to travel overseas. I don't think so.

The economic settings that are before us in the year ahead - unless a shock comes along - will mean travel will be on the minds of consumers.

With interest rates set to be low and very low for at least the rest of the year, some further confidence coming back, and lets hope some more positive news reports about the economy, consumers will want to travel.

Even looking at the current exchange rates with the USD at $.90ish, GBP at £0.66, JPY at ¥93.0 and HKD at HK$7.0 things still look good, really good for the power of the Aussie Dollar overseas.

So I hope that all in the travel industry are ready for the year ahead and no doubt AFTA and ATAS will be with you all, all the way.
