Helloworld "new phase"

HELLOWORLD ceo Andrew Burnes has foreshadowed an "more exciting phase" for the company as it reaps the benefit of stability and synergies achieved over the last 18 months or so.

While the priorities for the business in FY2018 are to continue recalibrating HLO's cost base so the business is the right size for its revenues, "we are moving to a more exciting phase where we can look at new developments across our four key divisions that will start to deliver TTV and revenue growth in the medium to long term," he said.

Key areas of focus include the company's digital strategy in terms of the functionality of helloworld.com.au and the in-house Resworld agency tool.

Growth options on the radar include "green field opportunities to develop services and enhance the existing services we provide, as well as potential bolt on acquisitions that would enhance various parts of Helloworld's operations," he said.

HLO is also in talks with more franchisees about buying parts of their businesses, similar to deals already sealed with Hunter Travel Group and Helloworld Mackay, Burnes confirmed.

Burnes' outlook for the company is featured in a cover story by Steve Jones in the Nov issue of travelBulletin, currently on its way to subscribers.

Virgin Samoa knock-back

THE Samoan Government has denied Virgin Australia permission to operate five return services per week between Auckland and Apia from 13 Nov.

A Virgin Australia spokesperson said the carrier was disappointed with the news.

"We are working in conjunction with the Australian Government to explore options to encourage the Samoan Government to reconsider its decision."

About 6,000 pax booked on the AKL-APW route will be impacted.

Virgin said it would fly pax to Samoa via Australia or to other destinations in the Pacific, or provide them with a full refund.

"As a matter of priority, we are working hard to reaccommodate those passengers and will be proactively communicating with them today to discuss their options," a Virgin Australia spokesperson said.

VA has issued a waiver code

BW000078 for changes or refunds for pax affected.

Samoa's ruling will not affect Virgin's already-approved twice weekly return services from Sydney to Apia and weekly flights from Brisbane to Apia which begin on 13 Nov.

The news comes after Virgin Australia and the Samoan Govt opted to conclude their Virgin Samoa partnership, with the Govt electing to start up its own Samoa Airways operations (TD 18 May).

Sth Africa rallies expats

SOUTH African Tourism (SAT) has enlisted the support of the 180,000-strong South African expat community in Australia as it works to develop tourism from this market.

As part of its campaign Come Home Bru (brother) targeting South Africans living abroad, the SAT has identified Australia as a high-potential market and has begun asking expats to take on roles as tourism ambassadors.

More than 350 recruits joined a braai (barbecue) held in Sydney on Sun, attracted via a competition and social media campaign based on a recent viral video involving Durban comedian Robby Collins.

Another 800, including members of the travel trade, are expected to take part in a similar launch in Perth this weekend.

In Australia for the events, South African Tourism chief operating officer Sthembiso Dlamini told TD expats would be equipped with tourism news, product developments and package details to share among their networks.

"We want to educate the expat community so they can sell their country and share with their Aussie mates what the destination has to offer," she said.

"It's a no-brainer to get them on board as our partners to help sell the destination."

The number of Australians travelling to South Africa grew 10% in 2016 to reach 111,000, and Dlamini said SAT was on track to reach its target of 120,000 Australians by the end of 2017.

While Australia sat behind South Africa's biggest markets in the US, UK, Germany and Netherlands, it had been identified as a high-potential source of future tourism and would be given greater marketing priority, Dlamini said.

MEANWHILE, South African Airways has launched Business class fares for travellers aged 65 and over.

Return fares are available from $3,885 from east coast points, on sale until the end of Nov and valid for travel until further notice.

Travellers need to depart and return on Mon, Tue or Wed flights.

NSW China mission

DESTINATION NSW has taken a delegation of 21 tourism operators to China for a showcase this week in Shanghai.

The group will highlight Sydney and regional NSW to more than 150 travel trade representatives at a series of one-on-one meetings and a gala dinner.

NSW Tourism Minister Adam Marshall said the visit would allow sellers to capitalise on the lucrative China market.

Among participants are AAT Kings, BridgeClimb, Fantasea Cruising and Taronga Zoo.

OF ALL the ugly mugs in Queensland, the team at Novotel Brisbane reckon they've found the best - and they're not from among the State of Origin Rugby League side.

The hotel's Two Donkeys cafe has introduced an alternative to the disposable coffee cups ordinarily offered with a flat white, instead providing guests with a choice of re-useable "ugly mugs".

Staff have sourced "the very best novelty and nanna mugs" from among Brisbane's local charity shops and give customers a 50c discount when they take the more environmentally friendly choice.

SriLankan determined to succeed

SRILANKAN Airlines made a big splash in Melbourne (TD yesterday) when UL604 touched down mid-afternoon complete with dignitaries, dancers and some cricketing royalty.

The new route, the only non-stop flight between Australia and Colombo, is operating daily with ceo Captain Suren Ratwatte telling TD the carrier had high aspirations for the flight.

"We're here, we're daily and we're going to make it work," he said, before cutting the ceremonial ribbon (above) with the help of Melbourne Airport chief of aviation Simon Gandy.

UL's Peter McKeon said forward bookings were already strong, with heavy demand from both Melbourne and interstate pax.

Wholesalers had embraced the new route he said, with a boom in travel to Sri Lanka as well as other UL destinations including the Maldives and India, where the oneworld member is currently the largest foreign carrier - more pics at facebook.com/traveldaily.

World fleet doubles

THE world's jet airliner fleet is expected to double over the next 20 years according to international aircraft leasing company Avolon.

Over 51,000 aircraft are expected to be in service by 2036 with 16,000 aircraft to be decommissioned over the same 20-year time period.

The motivating factors for new orders will involve the need to replace ageing models and ensuring craft keep pace with modern technology.

"A total of US$4.3t in additional financing will be required, with US$700b needed over the next five years," said Avolon head of strategy Dick Forsberg.

Hamilton golf score

HAMILTON Island Golf Club has extended its contract to host the PGA Professionals Championship until 2020.

This year's event marks the sixth time the venue has hosted the tournament and following the devastation of Cyclone Debbie, Hamilton Island Enterprises is keen to let tourists know the destination is back in action with events like these.

Hamilton Island Golf Club will host 50 Vocational PGA Professionals from 31 Oct-02 Nov.

SilkAir to Hiroshima

SILKAIR has launched a non-stop service between Singapore and Hiroshima, making it the only airline to offer flights between the two cities.

Services will run thrice-weekly and will be operated by SilkAir's new Boeing 737 MAX 8 aircraft, featuring improved Business and Economy class cabins.

The latest move means the combined Singapore Airlines-SilkAir network now serves a total of six Japanese points.

Rex to Karumba

REGIONAL Express (Rex) will fly a return Gulf route via Karumba under a Queensland Government trial commencing today.

The 12-month test run will involve the westbound service ex Cairns & the eastbound service from Mt Isa making an extra stop at Karumba once a week.

The decision was driven by ongoing community demand.

Canada rail boost

VIA Rail has revealed it will be adding a 10th round-trip between Toronto and Ottawa, bringing its total weekday departures to 20 between the two cities.

"On this popular segment... travellers have increased by 40% since 2014," said VIA Rail president & chief executive officer Yves Desjardins-Siciliano.

AFTA update

From AFTA's chief executive, Jayson Westbury

FEDERAL politics got interesting last week with the High Court handing down its decision in relation to the seven politicians caught up in the dual citizenship wrangle. As it turns out two were OK, even though one of them has announced he is leaving in any event. That would be Nick Xenophon. So, the Nick Xenophon party now needs a new member, new leader and new name. The deputy Prime Minister Barnaby Joyce turned out to be an ineligible dual citizen so he needs to go to a byelection, which will happen before the end of the year. As for the others, one is safe and four were deemed ineligible and one has now resigned. Deck chairs to the right please.

It is all very complicated as all legislation that has been passed by the lower house by one vote over this past term of government will need to be reviewed as to whether that vote carries, given the situation with the Deputy Prime Minister. I think this is called a right royal mess and I am sure the Prime Minister can't wait for the last sitting of Parliament and the summer break to start so they can get on with sorting this all out.

Meanwhile, the Queensland Premier has called a snap election for November 25, with both the Labor party and the LNP now facing strong swings from the growing support of the One Nation Party led by Pauline Hanson. The bookies have the LNP ahead by a nose, but I suspect that the odds will shorten as the next few weeks unfold.

These are uncertain times for the nation really, and it is amazing how, as a democracy, how down the middle we have all become. Both the Queensland election and the issues in Canberra are both held together by string and I suspect that once the outcome of the Queensland election is known a great deal of attention will turn to the way in which things might fall in Canberra.

We are bound to be surrounded by weeks of media coverage about the speculation of it all and in the end, it will be what it is and let's just hope that the country continues to be as successful as it is without necessarily clear political leadership with a mandate to get on with running the country with the policies put forward. Interesting times ahead over the coming month for sure.

Aquarium opens

SWITZERLAND now boasts the largest freshwater aquarium-vivarium in Europe.

Located near Lake Geneva, the new AQUATIS aquarium incorporates cutting-edge technologies such as high-tech devices, digital imagery and graphic animation to enhance the visitor experience.

The attraction also features two restaurants, a 143-room hotel and a conference centre.

Around 10,000 fish now call the aquarium home.

Florida guitar hotel

A MAJOR upgrade of the Seminole Hard Rock Hotel & Casino, Hollywood in Florida is underway and slated for completion in mid-2019.

When reopened, the renovations will have paved the way for an additional 806 guest rooms, taking the total to 1,300.

New additions will include a redesigned 7,000-seat Hard Rock Live Theatre & a giant guitar tower as the centrepiece.

ACTE blasts Trump

THE Association of Corporate Travel Executives has lambasted the Trump Administration's new policy on laptop screening at airports as an "unsafe, untested and reactionary" policy.

Whilst the association admits that laptops in check-in baggage pose a genuine security threat, in its view the new measures only serve to "shift the hazard" when not implemented thoughtfully and can also cause unnecessary wait times for travellers long-term if security is not well planned.

Cobalt Gatwick link

CYPRUS' largest airline, Cobalt Air, has introduced a new service that will link London Gatwick directly with Larnaca, Cyprus.

The new route will fly six times per week and will commence flying from Dec.

Services are set to cater towards holidaymakers and the growing business traveller market.

The airline currently serves 16 destinations across 10 different countries from Cyprus.

VANUATU has opened its new 1.2km walkway along the Port Vila shoreline.

The new addition in Port Vila's harbour now provides tourists to Vanuatu with access to a wide range of restaurants, bars, tours, markets, activities, helicopter rides and water sports.

New China airports

CHINA opened two airports in the northeastern part of the country over the weekend.

The new Songyuan airport is in an old ice-fishing town and will offer flights to Beijing.

The Jiansanjia Wetlands Airport in Heilongjiang Province has flights to Harbin and Beijing.

EK boosts Algiers

EMIRATES will be adding an extra flight to its service between Dubai and Algiers, making it a daily service from 13 Dec.

The additional flight will complement its current six times weekly flight and is served by Boeing 777 aircraft.

Not so scary Halloween

DISNEY has taken 19 agents from across Australia and New Zealand on its second annual Mickey's Not-So-Scary Halloween Mega Famil.

The group, pictured, hit the ground running across the entire Walt Disney World Resort.

Virgin Australia and Delta Air Lines transported the agents from Down Under to Disney's mammoth Orlando theme park.

So far the agents have explored Disney's Animal Kingdom Theme Park, Pandora – The World of Avatar, Magic Kingdom Park and the historic Walt Disney World Resort Railroad.

Agents also dressed up as their favourite character for Mickey's Not So Scary Halloween Party.

The group, pictured, is made up of participants from Qld, NSW, Victoria, SA, WA & New Zealand.

Money

WELCOME to Money, TD's Tue feature on what the Australian dollar is doing.

$1AUD = US0.768

THE Australian dollar rebounded on Fri after dropping to three-month lows in a horror week that saw the AUD/USD down 1.6%.

Wed's weak inflation numbers were the main driver of the dollar's weakness.

Trade balance and retail sales figures on Thu and Fri will be the key market movers.

The dollar was weak against the NZ dollar dropping almost a cent yesterday, however it is making a recovery this morning.

AUD was stronger against the Canadian dollar as investors are wary of tomorrow's economic data out of Canada.
