Amex GBT revamps tech

AMERICAN Express Global Business Travel is targeting "middle sized companies" with today's Australian rollout of a new "Business Travel Made for You" offering.

With a tag line "we're not just for the big guys," the TMC giant said the move would add "innovative new travel technology to create an easier, more personalised business travel experience".

Amex GBT Regional GM, Jo Sully, said one of the key features was the introduction of real-time live chat with travel consultants, which automatically works across platforms as customers transit from their desktop to mobile.

"Business Travel Made for You is easy to implement, drives cost efficiencies while offering robust reporting and traveller support, such as around-the-clock customer service and easy-to-use online tools," Sully said.

The new offering comprises the most popular GBT products, technology, services and travel inventory as an overall bundle, with a "simplified, standardised pricing structure and contract".

Key benefits highlighted include supplier discounts, streamlined booking, robust reporting and a crisis management tool, while travellers will enjoy cheaper rates, perks such as free wi-fi and breakfast, plus loyalty rewards and "fast-tracked elite status".

Sully said Amex GBT was also offering "assisted onboarding" to help buyers drive adoption of the platform, and ongoing travel buyer and manager guidance to ensure the program is successful.

Jayride marks milestone

AIRPORT transfer marketplace Jayride Group has now secured a presence at more than 1,500 international airports as part of its global expansion strategy.

The company said the milestone means it can now move "into the growth and profit stage" of its global development plan.

Part of the growth picture saw passenger trips booked in new countries increase by 70% in FY Q4 2019 when compared to the previous quarter, while the business also achieved its 24th consecutive quarter of revenue growth in the same period.

"All the elements are now in place - a robust technology platform, global footprint, a world-leading number of transport companies - to scale Jayride's revenue to profitably without the immediate need for further significant investment," said the company's Managing Director Rod Bishop.

Jayride now has coverage in all major aviation markets including the Americas, China, Europe, and Oceania, boasting access to more than 85% of global aviation trips.

The global rollout has also seen a spike in passenger price requests from major travel brands such as Flight Centre, Expedia, SkyScanner and Rome2Rio, who can all now take advantage of a global coverage of service.

To complement its global expansion, Jayride has also launched a new business intelligence platform, which it says would help grow revenue.

Aussie intention is down

THE number of Aussies who would like to take a holiday in the next year is down by 5% from 2001/2, according to Roy Morgan.

Only 78.6% of Aussies aged 14+ are looking for a holiday in the next 12 months.

On the rise is the popularity of an international vacation, up 7.5% to 49.5%, with 72% of Australians pining for a domestic holiday, down 9.1%.

The top five preferred domestic destinations are Melbourne and Sydney, followed by spots such as the Great Ocean Road, Hobart and the Blue Mountains.

New Zealand leads the way overseas, followed by the US, the UK, Japan and Canada.

The Land of the Rising Sun has been rising for an extended period of time, with only 2.5% of Aussies reporting they wanted to visit back in 2004, compared with 5.5% today.

In 2014, the country overtook Thailand as the most popular Asian destination, having increased by 7.3% since 2001.

"Traditional Asian holiday destinations such as Bali (mentioned by 5.3% of Aussies) and Thailand (4.6%) are still relatively popular, and are mentioned by a higher proportion of Aussies than in 2001, but both have fallen significantly behind Japan in the last five years," said Roy Morgan CEO Michele Levin.

"The good news for travel agents and those looking to cash in on the increasing popularity of Japan as a destination is that it attracts a high earning and spending demographic comprised primarily of young Australians under 35 years of age.

Over half of Aussies wanting to travel to Japan (54%) are in the two highest socio-economic quintiles.

Eclipse drops Cuba

THE US Government's ban on passenger cruises to Cuba (TD 07 Jun) is understood to be behind a decision to shelve two upcoming Scenic Eclipse voyages in Oct this year, replacing them with new Caribbean and Central American itineraries.

A 13-day "Taste of Caribbean" cruise will now depart Nassau on 08 Oct, followed by an 11-day "Colombia & Panama" trip ex Miami on 20 Oct 2019.

The Scenic website still indicates the previously scheduled "Cuba in Depth" and "Taste of Cuba and the Caribbean" voyages on the same dates.

The most recent update from the company confirmed that the repeatedly delayed ship was still on track for her maiden voyage, scheduled for exactly one month from today on 15 Aug.

Initial itineraries will see the "World's first Discovery Yacht" explore the US East Coast.

Window Seat

IMMERSIVE experiences are all the rage on vacations these days, but an American student got a little more in tune with nature than she'd hoped on a recent trip to Zambia.

While greeting a female African elephant up close within her 4,000-hectare reserve, the girl received an uppercut to the face from the mammal's trunk, sending her and her iPhone flying backwards.

The elephant then attempted to claim the phone for itself, trying to grab it off the ground before being warned off by the cameraman.

Vision of the TKO can be seen HERE, with it serving as a timely reminder that all elephants, wild or not, are beautiful, but unpredictable creatures.

Rydges adds two regional hotels

EVENT Hospitality and Entertainment today announced the expansion of its hotel network, with the addition of two Powerhouse Hotels in Tamworth and Armidale in northern NSW.

Both properties are currently branded as Quality Hotels, and will "join the growing stable of Rydges properties, supported by Rydges' extensive marketing and distribution channels," the company said.

The Tamworth property has today relaunched as Powerhouse Hotel Tamworth by Rydges, while Armidale will debut as Powerhouse Hotel Armidale by Rydges effective on 31 Jul.

Both hotels continue to be managed by owner and hotelier Greg Maguire, who said Powerhouse had been operating in regional NSW for 39 years.

"The completion of a multi-million dollar upgrade, which will take our Tamworth hotel from a 4.5-star rating to a 5-star rating, was the catalyst for choosing to partner with Event," he said.

"We're confident our Rydges partnership will deliver a local corporate sector focus, distribution strength in the global marketplace, continued innovation in our food and beverage offering, increased MICE business, strong digital strategy and authentically Australian guest experiences."

Event Director of Hotels and Resorts, Norman Arundel, said both Rydges and Powerhouse shared a strong commitment to delivering world-class service as well as investing in business and people to add value to regional communities and the tourism economy.

"Our team is incredibly excited about this appointment and look forward to Rydges becoming an integral part of the New England community," he added.

France recognises Scenic

THE Scenic Group was presented with France's National Order of Merit Medal on Fri in recognition of its long-term commitment to driving tourism in the country.

The medal was presented by Atout France Regional Manager Patrick Benhamou during a special Bastille Day industry lunch in Sydney, who told Scenic Group GM of Marketing, Australasia, Anthony Laver "you will only get one medal today, but with Scenic's creative drive and dedicated staff, you will win more accolades soon".

The event was one of five hosted by Scenic to mark Bastille

Day and Scenic France Month, with the team also entertaining key agents at functions across Melbourne, Adelaide, Perth and Brisbane.

Scenic is celebrating France throughout Jul with a number of initiatives designed to drive sales and increase agent education around the line's range of French river cruise products (TD 27 Jun).

Egypt new pyramid

EGYPT has opened its famous “bent” pyramid to visitors in a bid to boost tourism.

The pyramid was built for Pharaoh Sneferu and will allow tourists to clamber down a 79-metre narrow tunnel from a raised entrance on the pyramid’s north face to reach two chambers within the 4,600-year-old marvel.

The 101-metre attraction about 28km south of Cairo marked a key step in the ancient civilisation’s architectural history, as builders had to change the angle of construction when it started to crack, resulting in the pyramid’s unique shape.

The adjoining 18-metre “side pyramid”, possibly dedicated to Sneferu’s wife, is also now open for the first time since it was excavated in 1956.

The opening is under a push from authorities to promote tourism at Dahshur.

737 MAX in 2020?

737 MAX planes are unlikely to be operational again until 2020, according to govt sources cited by The Wall Street Journal.

The reason for the extended delay is attributable to the time it will take Boeing to fix ongoing flight-control software issues and regulatory steps it must meet to be sanctioned to fly again.

TC talks with Fosun

TROUBLED travel business Thomas Cook last week engaged Fosun in talks over a rescue deal, with data and analytics company GlobalData saying the company has "no choice but to undergo radical change".

The data business' Travel & Tourism Analyst Johanna Bonhill-Smith believes Thomas Cook is currently facing financial issues because its model has failed to contend with disruptors.

"If a deal is struck Thomas Cook will have to let Fosun take the reins, but cultural clashes due to business norms or an overriding strategy could mean the deal causes more problems than it solves," she said.

"Thomas Cook is in the position it is because its business model has not majorly evolved since it first began as an all-inclusive package holiday tour operator."
