FACTS quadruples in size

THE Festival of Aviation & Corporate Travel Summits (FACTS) 2026 has kicked off in Sydney today at the ICC with 2,041 registered attendees - four times the size of its inaugural event in 2024 - as the expo's footprint doubles and the program expands to six specialist summits.

More than half of those attending are new to FACTS, with this year's registrants travelling from 20 countries as well as from all over Australia.

The 653 corporate travel and business events buyers registered for FACTS represent an estimated $15.1 billion in combined annual purchasing power, comprising $13.89 billion in travel and $1.21 billion in meetings and events.

Today and tomorrow, attendees will hear from 230 speakers across nine stages, with executive debates, practical workshops and live demonstrations, while also having the opportunity to connect with 170 exhibitors, including 52 hotels and hotel groups and 30 airlines and air charter operators.

Already looking ahead to 2027, FACTS has announced a new partnership with The Corporate Travel Show in a series of events that will travel to Perth, Brisbane, Canberra, Sydney, Adelaide and Melbourne in Aug.

Designed to bolster connections across the corporate travel industry, the programs will include FACTS seminars and presentations followed by the Corporate Travel Show's signature format.

Stay tuned to Travel Daily this week for more on-the-ground coverage from FACTS 2026. JM

China Air boosts Oz

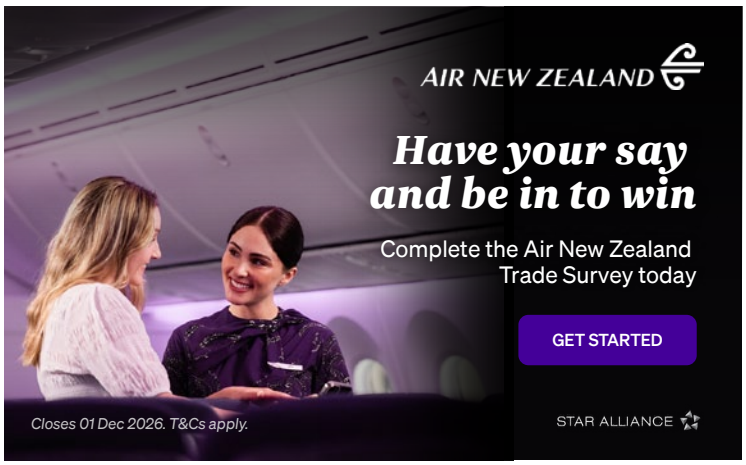

TAIWAN'S state-owned flag carrier China Airlines has expanded its Australian services and unveiled its new Boeing 787 Dreamliner experience.

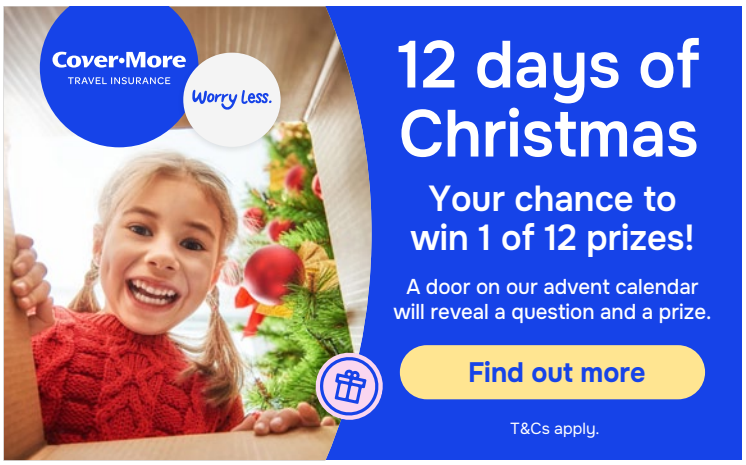

From next month, Brisbane-Taipei services will increase to six flights per week, while Melbourne-Taipei services will rise to five weekly flights.

These enhancements will bring CI's Australian network to 18 weekly departures, providing more travel options across its three Australian gateways.

CI is also preparing to welcome its new Boeing 787 Dreamliner fleet early next year.

New cabin interiors will showcase design elements inspired by Taiwan's landscapes.

RBA fee cuts fail to land

EXCLUSIVE

INTERCHANGE fee cuts that took effect from last month are failing to flow through to travel advisors, Sonia Jones Travel founder and namesake Sonia Jones (pictured) has informed Travel Daily.

Advisors are questioning the promised savings from surcharge reforms, Jones said, raising questions about whether the policy is achieving its intended outcome (TD 31 Mar).

Jones, who met recently with a member of parliament, said that MPs were unaware of the disconnect between the promised interchange fee reductions and the merchant fees agencies are actually paying.

"The most striking thing was the general unawareness of the interchange fee reality," Jones told Travel Daily.

"Despite the promised drop, some merchant fees have increased, some have stayed the same and others have fallen by only 0.1%."

Jones also revealed that travel agencies are not necessarily seeing the savings passed through, even where interchange costs have fallen.

"The RBA needs to explain the gap between the interchange fee promise and reality," she said.

"If fees have dropped, by how much, where is the saving going, and why aren't merchants seeing it flow through?" MS

AI agents are here

BOOKED AI has built what it is calling the "world's first end-to-end AI travel agent", which it said will serve businesses directly, as well as travel agencies under their own brand.

Launched today at the FACTS conference at ICC Sydney, 'Booked AI for Business' allows travellers to engage with it directly through voice or messaging, with the AI agent independently managing their travel requirements end-to-end.

Its capabilities span flight bookings across more than 300 airlines; hotels and car hire; expense management; and automatic rebooking in the event of delays or cancellations.

Booked AI said the agent's abilities span "well beyond what is currently available in the market", including visa application assistance, duty-of-care monitoring, 24/7 support for any travel-related matters through the journey, and more. MS

TRAVELDAILY ON LOCATION

Ephesus

Today's issue of TD is coming to you from aboard the Viking Vela cruising in the Aegean.

AFTER visiting Thessaloniki and a day at sea, today we arrive in Turkiye and the iconic port of Kusadasi, the gateway to the ancient city of Ephesus.

In the lead-up to our arrival Viking provided an extensive briefing for guests, both about the spectacular history of the destination as well as the opportunities for haggling and customs around the purchase of souvenirs such as jewellery, handbags and Turkish carpets.

Ephesus is a must-see, with a huge array of amazingly well-preserved artifacts from biblical times, an extensive history and fabulous shopping.

Cross utilise your leisure

EXCLUSIVE

TRAVEL + Leisure Co. is expanding the accommodation options available to its vacation club members through partnerships with Accor and Wyndham, helping drive greater utilisation of points and more ways for owners to travel.

The company purchases points from both hotel groups, allowing its members to access a broader range of accommodation beyond its ownership portfolio.

"We actually buy points off them to provide points to our owners for them to have more utilisation, more opportunities depending on the brand," Travel + Leisure Co. president and managing director of international operations Barry Robinson (pictured) told TD.

The arrangement provides members with access to properties across the Accor and Wyndham networks, including Peppers and Novotel hotels, with Robinson describing the flexibility between the different offerings as "cross utilisation".

The strategy also provides a wider range of accommodation options for the company's travel business, which operates an in-house travel agency servicing Club Wyndham and its owners.

Travel + Leisure Co. has more than 70 properties across the South Pacific, with Australia key to vacation ownership operations.

The company's strategy appears to be finding favour with investors, with shares reaching an all-time high of US$81.01 on 23 Nov, before closing at US$80.85 - up 4.47% on the day and 23.73% over the past year. ZH

Avenir arrives in Aus

CORPORATE travel management company Direct Travel has launched its intelligent travel management platform Avenir in Australia.

Announced at today's FACTS conference in Sydney, corporate and specialty travel programs now have access to Avenir's booking tools, travel content, data, and 24/7 advisor support.

Avenir offers a pipeline of local and global travel content, including direct access to Qantas NDC, alongside wider NDC and supplier connections.

Travel managers can centrally manage eligible unused airline credits, and, where airline rules permit, make them available across the organisation for future travel, helping businesses maximise their value.

Direct MD Peter Muller said Avenir allows greater visibility, consistency and control over their travel programs, alongside local expertise and personal service.

More govt support needed in NSW

EXCLUSIVE

CEO of the NSW Tourism Association, Natalie Godward, has called upon the state government to provide stronger support for local tourism businesses.

Speaking with TD, Godward (pictured) said the government should start by reducing red tape when it comes to establishing a tourism business, in addition to providing more grants and investments in infrastructure.

"There are ways to support the development of and to encourage private investment - what often happens is if government are coming in and supporting it one way or another, be it financially or from a regulatory perspective, then you are more likely to see private investment come in and match," Godward explained.

"It will give the confidence to a private investor to invest in a region if local government, state government, federal government are already supporting growth and infrastructure and investment in that particular region."

Godward also believed that government and associated stakeholders should be doing more when it came to leveraging the opportunities provided by the new Western Sydney International Airport.

"More support for operators to support that as a major gateway would be really great to see.

"We would like to see some more initiatives that support the Visitor Economy Strategy 2035 [and] lead into jobs, airline seats and accommodation," she added.

Additionally, Godward voiced her disapproval of the NSW Government's decision to cut funding to Destination NSW earlier this year (TD 15 Sep 2026).

"It is hard to do more with less and when other state STOs are being supported with funding," she explained.

"It is really hard to ask Destination NSW to keep supporting the operators within the visitor economy when they keep having less money." JB

Window Seat

A FLIGHT from Boston to Tampa was delayed last week when a cat broke free from its carrier in the passenger cabin.

The incident occurred on Delta Flight 2706 at 7am Fri (local time), with the captain radioing the control tower to inform them that the plane was unable to take off immediately.

In the captured conversation between the pilot and the air traffic controller at Boston Logan Airport, the controller sounded amused, saying "that is a new one".

Thankfully, passengers were only stuck on the taxiway very briefly before the kitty situation had been resolved.

Upon takeoff, the air traffic controller added, "Have a good day - meow."

Interrail unveils '27

INTERRAIL has announced a series of updates for its European train offerings in 2027, ranging from new cross-border connections to expanded overnight sleeper services.

From 13 Dec 2026, German operator Bentheimer Eisenbahn will commence a service from Coevorden, Netherlands to Bad Bentheim in Germany, improving access between the Dutch province of Drenthe and Germany's Lower Saxony.

At the same time, European Sleeper will introduce stops in Antwerp, Breda and Eindhoven on its service between Brussels and Milan, while Austria's national provider OBB will introduce its next-gen Nightjet trains on the Amsterdam to Zurich route.

A day later on 14 Dec, Eurostar will introduce a stop in Antwerp on its London to Amsterdam service (TD 31 Jul 2026).

Travellers can secure 25% off Interrail passes before 15 Dec. JB

Ormina eyes growth

ORMINA Tours brought its global team together in its birth city of Sicily last month for the Born in Sicily Global Summit.

Held from 17-24 Oct at the Commenda di San Calogero, the event combined business development discussions and first-hand destination experience, with the goal of growing the team's European expertise and guest experiences.

Reinforcing the importance of destination knowledge, delegates took part in a range of experiences synonymous with the Italian region, ranging from Mount Etna, Syracuse and several cultural and culinary experiences.

The summit followed the tour group's recent addition of the 2027 Sicily Bella Small Group Journey (TD 06 Oct 2026), a 10-day itinerary that combines the key sights of the island with experiences such as a 4WD trip to Mount Etna and private guided visits to five of its UNESCO World Heritage Sites.

It is priced from $10,990pp. JB

Unforgettable AI

UNFORGETTABLE Croatia is introducing an AI-centred division to its business operations, promoting Nick Talbot to the newly created role of AI and automation director.

Currently the company's head of marketing, Talbot will create the roadmap for implementing AI across Unforgettable Croatia's operations and guest services.

Talbot will assume the new position from 07 Dec and will report to Graham Carter, the company's co-founder.

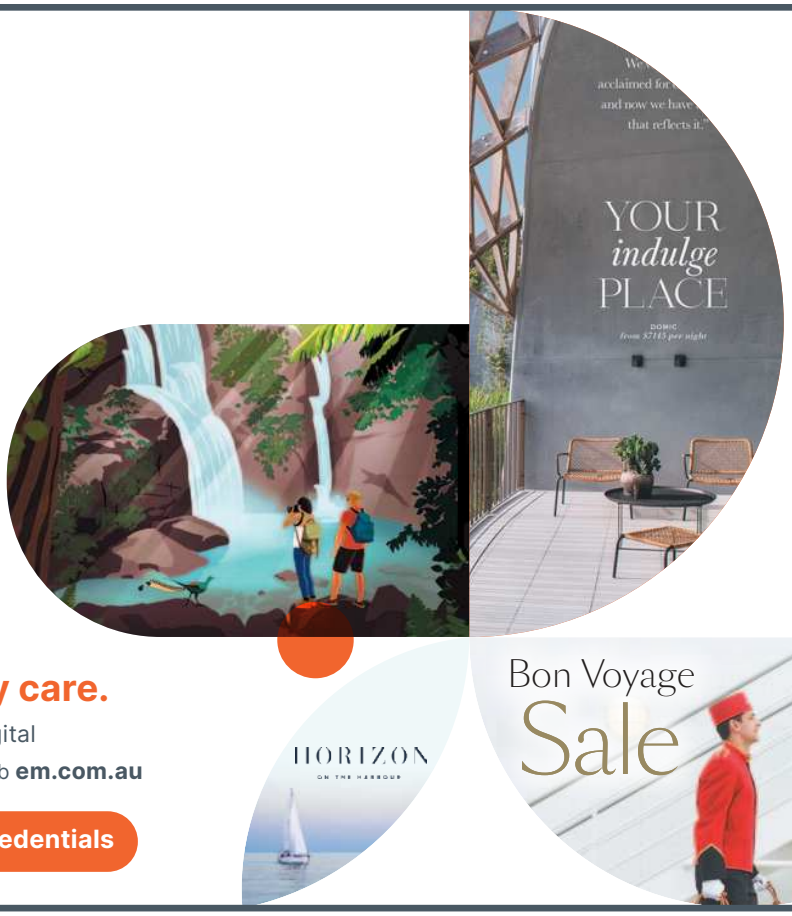

On the eve of the new division's introduction, Unforgettable Croatia has invested in a one-month in-person AI training program to upskill 30 employees - nearly a third of its team.

The company is also on the hunt for recruits to join the new technology division.

According to Carter, offloading admin work to AI will allow the business to provide greater personalised service. JB

Frontliners hits finish line

HELLOWORLD'S Frontliners Forum 2026 in Perth has officially come to a close, having brought together over 400 advisors, supplier partners and support team members.

Held at the Perth Convention and Exhibition Centre, the event focused on how travel advisors could leverage their expertise, relationships and personal service to continuously deliver strong customer outcomes in an evolving travel landscape.

In his opening keynote, CEO and managing director of Helloworld Travel Andrew Burnes stressed the importance of human expertise in the digital age.

"The human advantage is at the heart of everything we do," Burnes said.

"As technology continues to evolve, the role of the travel advisor becomes even more valuable," he added.

"The knowledge, relationships and personalised service you, our agents, provide cannot be matched or replicated."

Across the two days, delegates participated in discussions and workshops that focused on relationships, professional development, marketing and cruise growth.

Keynote presentations were delivered by HLO executives Nick Sutherland, Cinzia Burnes, Rohan Moss and Steve Brady, in addition to an interactive workshop session with Nicole O'Sullivan from Birds Eye View Consulting.

Supported by Tourism WA, delegates also got to explore Perth, including Optus Stadium and the Swan River.

The company is now looking ahead to the Helloworld Travel Summit 2027 in Las Vegas. JB

ATIA UPDATE

from Mira Yates, director of CATO & education

WITH just a few days to go until our annual CATO Christmas Lunch, the excitement is certainly building.

This year's event feels particularly special.

It's already sold out and will be our first CATO event since becoming a division of ATIA and, fittingly, it is also set to be our biggest Christmas Lunch yet, with the CATO community joined by an even broader cross-section of the travel industry.

For me, it is a wonderful reminder of what the CATO and ATIA merger is all about: bringing our industry closer together and supporting a stronger, more unified industry association while continuing to celebrate the unique sectors within it.

I am also incredibly proud that this year's major sponsors, G Adventures, Intrepid Travel, Contiki, Trafalgar, Cosmos and Globus, are all CATO members sharing the Major Sponsorship of the event.

Their collective commitment highlights the strength and unity of the touring sector and the important role tour operators and wholesalers play in the broader travel industry.

This year, we are putting the spotlight firmly on the heart of touring: our tour guides.

Our Tales from the Road panel will bring together guides from six CATO member organisations to share some of the funniest, most memorable and unexpected moments from life on tour.

With the incredible momentum around this event, we are already looking ahead.

Tickets for our International Women's Day Lunch on 05 Mar 2027 are about to go on sale, so watch this space over the coming days to be among the first to secure yours.

We cannot wait to celebrate with you all at Le Montage on 03 Dec and raise a glass to our industry, our members and an exciting year ahead.

Intrepid grows NZ team

INTREPID Travel has announced the expansion of its NZ sales and customer service team, providing agents more support with bookings and enquiries as the company heads into its busiest period of the year.

Lara Wilson, Vinny Datt and Ruby Agwu have joined the team (pictured), accompanied by experienced consultants Carissa Davies, Janette Villamor and Sandie Meyrick, with tailormade specialist Beth Nichols rounding out the NZ cohort.

General manager of Intrepid New Zealand, Simon McKearney, said that the expansion reflects the company's commitment to supporting the local market.

"We are certainly proud to be growing our New Zealand team and investing in the relationships that matter most to our business," Kearney said.

"Our recent workplace awards are a fantastic endorsement of our culture, and it is exciting to welcome more talented people into an already outstanding team," he added. JB

Another on the reef

THE new 35-metre purpose built vessel for Cruise Whitsundays has floated out at the Austral Shipyards in Vung Tau, Vietnam, scheduled to join its fleet in 2027.

She is custom built for the cruise line's ReefWorld and Heart Pontoon, located on Hardy Reef.

The three-deck vessel will accommodate 389 guests, including nine wheelchair accessible spaces, sailing at speeds of up to 25 knots.

She will include both premium class and first-class seating. JB

Travelex ANZ expansion

FOREIGN exchange brand Travelex is growing its ATM and store network at major retail and airport sites across Australia and New Zealand.

This includes expanding its presence to Sydney Airport, where it has won the airport's foreign exchange and ATM services contract and is now operating an initial network of 10 stores and more than 20 ATMs.

Meanwhile, the company has launched three new ATMs at Gold Coast Airport, where it is dispensing Australian, New Zealand and US dollars as well as Indonesian rupiah.

Other new Travelex ATMs have opened at Newcastle Airport, which has launched new flight routes to Bali and Singapore, and at Avalon Airport, where demand for Indonesian rupiah is growing following the launch of direct flights to Bali earlier this year.

An additional Travelex ATM is now at 25 Martin Place Food Court in Sydney, as well as two others at Hobart Airport.

Meanwhile in New Zealand, there are three new ATMs at Christchurch Airport and a new store in New Plymouth.

According to Travelex, 84% of Australians take and spend with cash when abroad - more than any other payment type. JHM

Luxperience wraps

LUXPERIENCE 2026 has wrapped up at The Cutaway in Sydney's Barangaroo last week, when it welcomed 450 attendees and organised a famil program that nearly doubled to 15 trips.

According to the Luxperience team, the venue - which reopened earlier this year following a $100 million transformation - was the "perfect home" for the event.

"The feedback on the space, the atmosphere and the ambience has been incredible," Luxperience co-MD Jonathan Leggett said.

"It has raised the event to a new level."

Also new for this year was a pre-event famil to Papua New Guinea hosted by South Sea Horizons, which took advisors from Port Moresby to Rondon Ridge and Mount Hagen.

Luxperience will be held at The Cutaway again in 2027. JB

The signing marks the first Sofitel property in Croatia. JB

UBER ROLLS OUT RED CARPET FOR SYD

UBER has brought its first-class offering to Australia with the launch of Uber Elite - an invite-only luxury ride experience designed for executives and travellers looking for a more elevated experience.

Sydney marks the second international market outside the US to launch Uber Elite, joining global hubs such as Los Angeles, San Francisco, New York City, and most recently Hong Kong.

Elite trips are accompanied by a professional chauffeur and serviced by high-end vehicles, including top-of-the-line models such as Mercedes-Benz (S-Class, GLE, E-Class), BMW (7-Series and iX), and Audi (Q7 and Q8).

Each ride includes complimentary touches such as chargers, bottled water, mints, and hand-sanitising towelettes, with customers also able to submit special requests in-app.

Additionally, the in-app 'meet and greet' feature allows pax to select in-terminal pickup at the Sydney Kingsford Smith Airport.

"Sydney is a world-class city with an incredible appetite for luxury and elevated experiences," Emma Foley, Uber ANZ MD, said.

"Bringing Uber Elite to Sydney as one of the very first two international cities outside of the US, is a testament to the city's standing as a global hub.

Uber Elite is available for customers in Sydney metro areas, with invites first being extended to frequent Uber Black users and Uber for Business clients before later expanding to all riders.

The luxury experience is scheduled to roll out to Melbourne by early 2027. JM

Emirates unveils first-class lounge in Dubai

Fiji's Jean-Michel Cousteau Resort is introducing a festive pen-pal program, allowing younger guests to connect with children from the local village on Vanua Levu. It will help children at the resort learn about the lives, traditions and culture of the local community. The program aims to teach children that travel is not only about the destination, but about the people they meet there.

Minor Hotels has announced the phased transformation and rebranding of Buri Rasa Village Phangan as Avani Koh Phangan Resort. Beginning Jan 2027 and finishing Q4 2027, Minor will introduce a design concept inspired by both the lunar rhythms of Koh Phangan and its fishing village heritage. The property will also include a beachfront dining experience centered on Gulf seafood and open-fire cooking.

KARV, a Luxury Collection Resort & Spa Jimbaran, Bali, is set to open Mar 2027 on the cliffs overlooking Jimbaran Bay. Designed by Yabu Pushelberg, the resort will offer 64 suites and villas, featuring 23 one-bedroom pool villas and two two-bedroom pool villas. There will also be four dining concepts including a botanical lobby bar, an ocean-facing lounge with open-fire cooking, and Riley's Pool Club, which is set around a 38-metre infinity pool.

The EVE Hotel in Sydney has introduced two new dining venues, Baptiste and Tenjo. Located on the ground floor by Baptist Street, Baptiste is an all-day French bistro offering house-baked pastries, pancakes and thick-cut bacon sandwiches. Tenjo is a rooftop Japanese izakaya, located next to the hotel's pool. The restaurant will offer menu items such as chicken karaage, kingfish with miso ponzu, rice bowls and konbu fries.

The Astor Hotel in Hobart has hit the open market with an asking price of $4 million. The 23-key property on Macquarie Street was initially two townhouses, which were then amalgamated and transformed into a boutique hotel in the 1930s. It also features two securely leased dining venues - The Astor Grill and Pitzi - both of which will continue trading during the auction period.

Alliance an ally for SA

ALLIANCE Airlines sponsored the charter jet for Variety SA's charity golf event on Kangaroo Island recently, raising over $150,000 for children in need.

According to the destination's local newspaper, Alliance's aircraft was one of the largest charter jets to land at its airport.

Event organisers praised Alliance's contribution, calling it "instrumental in bringing our inaugural Charity Classic to life, creating a truly special experience for everyone involved".

CEO Steven Greenway said that Alliance Airlines was "delighted" to support the event, calling it a "wonderful opportunity" to use its expertise for a good cause.

"Alliance Airlines has been a long-time supporter of Variety SA, and we are incredibly grateful for their continued generosity and commitment to helping South Australian children," he said.

The initiative from Alliance also shed light on Kangaroo Island's capacity to support larger aircraft, highlighting the crucial role aviation plays in stimulating regional tourism. JB
